DRIVE FOR $750 FOR BOY SCOUT WORK AT HAND

Leaders Of City, County To Gather Wednesday For Early Bird Event

REP. RADCLIFF TO SPEAK

Use To Which Dollar Is Put Explained By Officials Of District

The "kick-off" event, which will get the annual sustaining campaign for Boy Scout funds under way, will be staged at 7:30 a. m.
Wednesday at which time the Area Council's "early bird" breakfast will be served in the American Hotel Hurricane.

Circleville and Pickaway County are seeking $750 to assure participation of local Boy Scout troops in the activities of the Central Ohio Area Council during the next year. Other counties have been assessed amounts depending on the number of boys benefiting from Boy Scout work.

Many men of Circleville and the county who are interested in boys have been invited to attend the "early bird" breakfast. William D. Radcliff, Pickaway County representative to the general assembly, will speak at the breakfast meeting. Radcliff is a Boy Scout executive and active in the work of the county organization.

Goeller Plans Campaign Charles Goeller, chairman of the district financial committee, is in charge of the campaign for $750.
Goeller has lined up his assistants and is ready to launch the campaign, which he hopes will be a success.

A motion picture of Boy Scout activities will be shown during the morning program.

The Boy Scout program, recognized nationally as an important one for the proper training of youths, is operated through professional and volunteer assistance. A highly-trained corps of field workers is maintained by the Area Council, which has headquarters in Columbus.

Circleville Scouters, Tuesday, discussed the use to which $1 contributed to the Scout movement is used; twelve cents for organization, development and promotion of all council-wide activities, Cam-

All Army And Navy Leaves
Cancelled; Move Applies To War Industries

THE HAGUE, Netherlands,
May 7—Without advance warning, all Dutch army leaves were ordered cancelled late today.

All Dutch navy leaves also were cancelled.

No reason for the move was given.

The official Dutch news agency threw little light on the unexpected measure, merely stating that the cancellations represented a necessary precaution "in view of the uncertain international situation."

The cancellation of leaves also applies to workers in war indus-and air force searchlight sections.

OHIOAN CHARGES HE WAS 'TAKEN' IN 'LOVE' GAME

CHICAGO, May 7—Mrs. Nelle Galub, 31, comely Chicago widow, was held on an open charge today on the complaint of Clyde M.
Parkes, 52-year-old farmer from Wellington, O., that he had been made the victim of a confidence game.

Parkes told authorities he met Mrs. Galub through a New York matrimonial bureau, and that she visited him at his farm last November after they had corresponded a month.

The farmer alleged he had given
Mrs. Galub $100 for an engagement ring in December, and that he came to Chicago last night to be married. Mrs. Galub met him, he said, and he gave her $290 "to make the final payment on her car."

"To make a long story short," police quoted the farmer as saying, "Nelle stood me up last night after I had taken her to a movie."

Parkes returned to Mrs. Galub's apartment with police, where the woman admitted she had no automobile and that she had changed her mind "about getting married."

Parkes signed a formal complaint charging Mrs. Galub with operating a confidence game.

BRITISH TROOPS RECEIVE PRAISE ON RETURN HOME

LONDON, May 7—Battle-worn British troops back from the Norwegian battle fronts were cheered today by words of praise from Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff, who told them:

"Don't think you were driven out of Norway. You were ordered out. The great thing is that your discipline brought you out."

"Remember the good things, how you beat those people when they came at you—you with none

The massacre occurred at the ada mile away, and the victims were:

"DYNAMITE - GUN" SLAYER OF WIFE DIES ON NOOSE

FORT MADISON, Ia., May 7—Walter H. (Dusty) Rhodes, 32, was hanged at the Iowa State penitentiary at Fort Madison early today for the "dynamite-gun" murder of his wife in their Iowa City home on February 9, 1937.

Rhodes was pronounced dead at 7:29 a. m., 12 minutes after Sheriff Don McComas released the trap which hurled the condemned man to death.

Yesterday the United States Supreme Court refused to make a last-minute review of the case.
Rhodes was convicted of murdering his wife, Mabel, from whom he sought a divorce, in order that he might marry another woman.
He confessed that he induced her to pull the trigger of a shotgun which he had loaded with dynamite.

SHOULD BE LAW AGAINST IN-LAWS, DECLARES JUDGE

CHICAGO, May 7—There ought to be a law protecting newlyweds against in-laws, is the opinion today of Judge Rudolph Desort.

Mrs. Helen Lundy, 29, was granted a divorce by Judge Desort after she testified she and her husband, Philip, lived with his parents until the latter ordered her to leave. Said the judge:

"Flee your in-laws as you would the plague if you can't get along with them. In-laws should be prohibited by law from living with newlyweds unless the arrangement is congenial."

frenzied fear, was indicated when a "last will and testament" was found on the seat of his automobile and by a note left to his wife, Polly Spencer in which he reportedly said he had planned the slayings.

The will read:

"My Last Will and Testament.
I, Verlin Spencer, being of sound mind, according to the Ross-Loos Clinic, this is my last will and testament, and I leave all of my property to my wife. This will be null and void if she spends more than $200 for funeral expenses. Signed Verlin Spencer."

Spencer's motive for the slayings, according to Police Chief Frank Higgins, was this: he had been informed by Superintendent Bush that, because his behavior had been erratic following a nervous breakdown he suffered several months ago, his contract would not be renewed.

After a telephone conversation with Bush a few days ago, he was granted a hearing before the board of education yesterday.

Outwardly calm, but with a white and drawn face, Spencer entered Miss Talbert's office at 3
p. m. and was ushered into an office where sat Bush, Alman and Speer.

Miss Talbert said she heard a brief hum of conversation, then Spencer's voice raised an anger, then in rapid succession three shots.

Each Shot Through Heart
Each man, it was discovered later, was shot through the heart by a .22 caliber automatic pistol.
Each was slumped in his chair at the conference table.

Screaming, "I'll get them all!"
Spencer strode from the room, leveled his pistol at Miss Talbert and squeezed the trigger twice.

POSTOFFICE RANKS HIGH IN SAVINGS BOND SALES

The Circleville postoffice ranked 103rd out of 134 Ohio second class offices in sale of United State Savings Bonds during 1939.
Postmaster Hulise Hays announced Tuesday. The total of sales for the Circleville office was $41,- 531.25. Among the second class offices in Ohio, Worthington ranked first with total sales of $51,581.25 and Minster was second with $49,837.50.

Secretary of the Treasury Mergen-

sales of Savings Bonds through March 31, 1940, aggregated in maturity value more than $3,860,273,- 475, and that purchases have been made by approximately 1,987,374 investors. The total represents average purchases of $2,495,325 for each business day since March 1, 1935, when the bonds were first placed on sale. Deducting bonds redeemed, the maturity value of Savings Bonds outstanding on March 31, 1940 was approximately $3,495,573,600.

a cash purchase of $272,006.25.

ALLIES SET DAY FOR NEW MOVE ON AXIS POWERS

Germans Claim They Heard Telephone Conversations Between London, France

PRESS SOUNDS ALARM

Vital Hour In Mediterranean
Nears?; Other Capitals Laugh At Rumors

BERLIN, May 7—A purported 15-minute telephone conversation between British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and French Premier Paul Reynaud, in which "the zero hour for the Allied attack in the Mediterranean" was set for May 20 was reported today throughout the German press.

Apparently based on reports of German secret service agents, the Nazi newspaper stories said the conversation took place April 20 between 10:10 and 10:25 p. m.

(Authoritative British quarters in London branded as "fantastic" the purported phone talk. Paris likewise officially branded the German stories untrue.)

Reynaud assertedly began the conversation, after a few formal phrases, by asserting that General Maxime Weygand, commander of the Allied forces in the Near East, had promised him "to be finally ready for the 'ordered action' by May 15". He cautioned, however, that Chamberlain should not take this date too literally as "it might be a little later."

Chamberlain, "obviously angered," said it was his impression that "they are taking more time than is necessary down there."

Reynaud assertedly then pointed out to Chamberlain "the many difficulties which have to be overcome, especially in connection with Turkey." The German radio stated:

ASHVILLE MAYOR HEADS ADVISORY HEALTH COUNCIL

Fred Hines, Asheville mayor, was elected president of the advisory health council of Pickaway County at its annual dinner meeting at

Carl Binns, New Holland, was elected secretary, and Whitney Lamb, whose term as a member years.

Other members of the board are Harry Dick, Monroe Township,
Alva Courtright, Asheville, Dr.
G. D. Sheets, Williamsport and H. E. Defenbaugh, Tarleton.

At the meeting Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, gave a report of the health work conducted in the county during last year. Discussion regarding future health work in the county followed Dr. Blackburn's report.

Nineteen persons, consisting of township chairmen and mayors of villages throughout the county, Dr.
Blackburn and Mrs. Harriet Hen-ness, clerk of the county health office, were present.

Pickaway County Commission-relief problem with Solicitor Joe Adkins, Monday, the commissioners decided to lay aside the issue until their meeting next Monday, at which time discussion on the subject will again be resumed.

At the commissioners' meeting Monday the Kepler-Ford road, beginning at Harrisburg and Darby-doned.

MINISTER PUTS FIRST LORD IN VITAL POSITION

Cries Of "Resign" Heard As Commons Meets
To Hear Cabinet Leader Explain Stand; Scandinavian Struggle Brings Crisis

LONDON, May 7—With a firm warning that the British Isles themselves face the imminent possibility of a lightning German attack, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today defended Britain's withdrawal from South and Central Norway and made First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill directly responsible for day-to-day conduct of the war.

In a lengthy statement to a restless and partly hostile House of Commons, Chamberlain stood unmoved by angry cries of "resign" and taunts of "who missed the bus?"

and showed clearly his determination to remain in office and prosecute the war as he and his cabinet have agreed.

"Let us beware," he said,
"against being tempted into such dispersal of our forces as might suit the enemy. Let us beware of jitters and divisions among ourselves, when presently we may be faced in the most violent form with attacks directed against this country."

Speech Lame One General feeling in the lobbies was that Chamberlain's speech was lame. The frequent interruptions clearly showed that Laborites will not coalesce with the government while Chamberlain is at the helm. This was most clearly shown when the prime minister's request for wholehearted cooperation in the war effort was greeted with a full-throated labor cry:

"Not with you in charge!"
Major Richard Clement Attlee, the laborite leader, charged that the government persistently made misleading speeches "full of lame excuses."

"We are not afraid of facing facts," he said.

"This is a reverse. The Norwegian campaign never was meant to be a mere 'tip and run' exploit.
The country considered it of major importance."

Attlee reiterated charges that "young boys without training" had been sent to Norway.

There is no doubt of the courage and constancy of the people of Britain provided they get the right lead, he said, "but I am not satisfied despite all the premier has said that the present war cabinet is an efficient instrument for conducting the war."

Thunderous opposition cheers accompanied Attlee's scathing attack on leading cabinet ministers.

"People are saying that those mainly responsible today are men who have had an almost uninter-

WOMAN RUNS MILE AFTER AID WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT IN LOG FARM HOUSE

A log farm house, owned by Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Jackson, 202 North Scioto Street, burned to the ground Tuesday at 9:15 a. m.
Circleville firemen were also unable to save a summer kitchen which stood directly behind the house, but the barn which stood nearby was not damaged.

Ralph Hamilton, who lives in the Jackson property, was at work on a WPA project at Orient when the fire started. Mrs.
Hamilton ran a mile to a neighbor's to call the fire department.
She said that the fire apparently started in a clothes press in the house. Firemen were able to get everything from the house except a bed, a stove and two chairs.

The farm house is located five miles southeast of Circleville. The run was the third for the new Township truck.

WOMAN KILLED, OTHERS BURNED IN HOME BLAST

CLEVELAND, May 7—Flaming gasoline caused the death today of Mrs. Mary Piroosko, 47, and her husband, Paul, 48, received serious burns when the gasoline spilled as they prepared to clean the walls of their bathroom. Their five children were less seriously burned and a city fireman was cut by a piece of glass while fighting the flames.

An explosion, followed by fire, occurred when Mrs. Piroosko dropped a bottle of gasoline, which was being used to remove surplus paint.

A pair of heavy overalls saved Piroosko's life. St. Luke's Hospital attendants said. They shielded him from the flames, although he was burned on the hands and head and suffered a deep cut in the right foot.

Firemen said that the gasoline might have been ignited by the heat of an electric light bulb which had been placed in the sink on an extension cord.

Eleven Wafdists (members of an anti-British party striving for Egyptian independence) were arrested and held in Alexandria jail, according to the dispatch.

Funeral services will be conducted in Columbus Wednesday for Christopher E. Sherman, 70, professor emeritus of civil engineering at Ohio State University and engineer for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy district, who died Monday.

Professor Sherman who had numerous acquaintances in Circleville and Pickaway County had been ill three months.

School Principal Murders Four After Losing Contract; Two Others May Die

SOUTH PASADENA, Cal., May 7—Verlin Spencer, 37-year-old South Pasadena Junior High School principal who ran amuck and killed four school officials, wounded two women and then tried to end his own life because he was not to be rehired, was close to death himself today.

Hospital attaches held little hope that Spencer or the two

BRITISH TROOPS RECEIVE PRAISE ON RETURN HOME

LONDON, May 7—Battle-worn British troops back from the Norwegian battle fronts were cheered today by words of praise from Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff, who told them:

"Don't think you were driven out of Norway. You were ordered out. The great thing is that your discipline brought you out."

"Remember the good things, how you beat those people when they came at you—you with none of the implements they possessed."

"You were the advance guard. We thought we would be able to get to you the guns and aviation which would make it possible to fight such a machine as you opposed. But, as you know, very soon the race went against us."

"You have come back with your tails up. You'll be ready again to show the same courage that you did then."

women he shot would live through the day.

Extremely interested in pistols and target shooting, and rated as a crack shot, Spencer late yesterday made deadly use of his hobby. The massacre occurred at the administration offices of the South Pasadena school district, and at the South Pasadena-San Marino Junior High School, a quarter of a mile away, and the victims were:

George C. Bush, 64, prominent Southern California educator, and for 35 years superintendent of the South Pasadena-San Marino schools.

John E. Alman, 50, principal of the South Pasadena-San Marino Senior High School.

Will Speer, 43, business manager of the school district.

Verner V. Vanderlip, 38, manual arts instructor at the junior high school.

The wounded were:

Miss Dorothea Talbert, 30, secretary to Supt. Bush.

Mrs. Ruth B. Sturgeon, 45, art instructor at the junior high school.

"DYNAMITE - GUN" SLAYER OF WIFE DIES ON NOOSE

FORT MADISON, Ia., May 7—Walter H. (Dusty) Rhodes, 32, was hanged at the Iowa State penitentiary at Fort Madison early today for the "dynamite-gun" murder of his wife in their Iowa City home on February 9, 1937.

Rhodes was pronounced dead at 7:29 a. m., 12 minutes after Sheriff Don McComas released the trap which hurled the condemned man to death.

Yesterday the United States Supreme Court refused to make a last-minute review of the case.

Rhodes was convicted of murdering his wife, Mabel, from whom he sought a divorce, in order that he might marry another woman. He confessed that he induced her to pull the trigger of a shotgun which he had loaded with dynamite.

SHOULD BE LAW AGAINST IN-LAWS, DECLARES JUDGE

CHICAGO, May 7—There ought to be a law protecting newlyweds against in-laws, is the opinion today of Judge Rudolph Desort.

Mrs. Helen Lundy, 29, was granted a divorce by Judge Desort after she testified she and her husband, Philip, lived with his parents until the latter ordered her to leave. Said the judge:

"Flee your in-laws as you would the plague if you can't get along with them. In-laws should be prohibited by law from living with newlyweds unless the arrangement is congenial."

ALLIES SET DAY FOR NEW MOVE ON AXIS POWERS

Germans Claim They Heard Telephone Conversations Between London, France

Vital Hour In Mediterranean Near?; Other Capitals Laugh At Rumors

BERLIN, May 7—A purported 15-minute telephone conversation between British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and French Premier Paul Reynaud, in which "the zero hour for the Allied attack in the Mediterranean" was set for May 20 was reported today throughout the German press.

Apparently based on reports of German secret service agents, the Nazi newspaper stories said the conversation took place April 20 between 10:10 and 10:25 p. m.

(Authoritative British quarters in London branded as "fantastic" the purported phone talk. Paris likewise officially branded the German stories untrue.)

Reynaud assertedly began the conversation, after a few formal phrases, by asserting that General Maxime Weygand, commander of the Allied forces in the Near East, had promised him "to be finally ready for the 'ordered action' by May 15." He cautioned, however, that Chamberlain should not take this date too literally as "it might be a little later."

Chamberlain, "obviously angered," said it was his impression that "they are taking more time than is necessary down there."

Reynaud assertedly then pointed out to Chamberlain "the many difficulties which have to be overcome, especially in connection with Turkey." The German radio stated:

ASHVILLE MAYOR HEADS ADVISORY HEALTH COUNCIL

Fred Hines, Asheville mayor, was elected president of the advisory health council of Pickaway County at its annual dinner meeting at the Franklin Inn Monday night. Carl Binns, New Holland, was elected secretary, and Whitney Lamb, whose term as a member of the board had expired, was re-elected for a period of five years.

Other members of the board are Harry Dick, Monroe Township, Alva Courtright, Asheville, Dr. G. D. Sheets, Williamsport and H. E. Defenbaugh, Tarleton.

At the meeting Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, gave a report of the health work conducted in the county during last year. Discussion regarding future health work in the county followed Dr. Blackburn's report.

Nineteen persons, consisting of township chairmen and mayors of villages throughout the county, Dr. Blackburn and Mrs. Harriet Hennes, clerk of the county health office, were present.

COMMISSIONERS PUT OFF RELIEF MOVE FOR WEEK

Pickaway County Commissioners have postponed for the remainder of the week, any action on the present relief dilemma. After discussing all angles of the relief problem with Solicitor Joe Adkins, Monday, the commissioners decided to lay aside the issue until their meeting next Monday, at which time discussion on the subject will again be resumed.

At the commissioners' meeting Monday the Kepler-Ford road, beginning at Harrisburg and Darbyville Pike and extending east to Darby Creek was declared abandoned.

Glen Ridge, New Jersey, leads the second class postoffices with a cash purchase of $272,006.25.

Cries Of "Resign" Heard As Commons Meets To Hear Cabinet Leader Explain Stand; Scandinavian Struggle Brings Crisis

LONDON, May 7—With a firm warning that the British Isles themselves face the imminent possibility of a lightning German attack, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today defended Britain's withdrawal from South and Central Norway and made First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill directly responsible for day-to-day conduct of the war.

In a lengthy statement to a restless and partly hostile House of Commons, Chamberlain stood unmoved by angry cries of "resign" and taunts of "who missed the bus?" and showed clearly his determination to remain in office and prosecute the war as he and his cabinet have agreed.

"Let us beware," he said, "against being tempted into such dispersal of our forces as might suit the enemy. Let us beware of jitters and divisions among ourselves, when presently we may be faced in the most violent form with attacks directed against this country."

Speech Lane One

General feeling in the lobbies was that Chamberlain's speech was lame. The frequent interruptions clearly showed that Laborites will not coalesce with the government while Chamberlain is at the helm. This was most clearly shown when the prime minister's request for wholehearted cooperation in the war effort was greeted with a full-throated labor cry:

"Not with you in charge!"

Major Richard Clement Attlee, the laborite leader, charged that the government persistently made misleading speeches "full of lame excuses."

"We are not afraid of facing facts," he said.

"This is a reverse. The Norwegian campaign never was meant to be a mere 'tip and run' exploit. The country considered it of major importance."

Attlee reiterated charges that "young boys without training" had been sent to Norway.

There is no doubt of the courage and constancy of the people of Britain provided they get the right lead, he said, "but I am not satisfied despite all the premier has said that the present war cabinet is an efficient instrument for conducting the war."

Thunderous opposition cheers accompanied Attlee's scathing attack on leading cabinet ministers.

"People are saying that those mainly responsible today are men who have had an almost uninter (Continued on Page Four)

WOMAN KILLED, OTHERS BURNED IN HOME BLAST

CLEVELAND, May 7—Flaming gasoline caused the death today of Mrs. Mary Piroso, 47, and her husband, Paul, 48, received serious burns when the gasoline spilled as they prepared to clean the walls of their bathroom. Their five children were less seriously burned and a city fireman was cut by a piece of glass while fighting the flames.

An explosion, followed by fire, occurred when Mrs. Piroso dropped a bottle of gasoline, which was being used to remove surplus paint.

A pair of heavy overalls saved Piroso's life, St. Luke's Hospital attendants said. They shielded him from the flames, although he was burned on the hands and head and suffered a deep cut in the right foot.

Firemen said that the gasoline might have been ignited by the heat of an electric light bulb which had been placed in the sink on an extension cord.

'PREPAREDNESS' OF U. S. FLAYED

Congressman Says Nation's Capital Vulnerable In Case Of General War

WASHINGTON, May 7—The capital of the United States is vulnerable to attack in case of war, Rep. J. Farnell Thomas (R.) N. J., declared in a letter to Secretary of War Woodring today after an inspection of the defenses surrounding Washington.

Thomas, a captain during the World War, asserted that Langley Field, GHQ air force center, and Fort Monroe, both in Virginia, are "pitiful and defenseless" and that the United States is "even less prepared today than it was at the start of the last war."

The congressman said that he made a minute inspection of the two Virginia military establishments to determine first, the adequacy of U. S. army and air corps stations and second, whether Langley and Fort Monroe could defend the capital against an enemy attack.

"One enemy battleship or one enemy flying fortress could wipe Fort Monroe right off the map and cripple the air field," he declared. "And they are typical of our defenses all over the country."

The legislator said Fort Monroe was supposed to be able to defend (Continued on Page Four)

WOMAN RUNS MILE AFTER AID WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT IN LOG FARM HOUSE

A log farm house, owned by Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Jackson, 202 North Scioto Street, burned to the ground Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. Circleville firemen were also unable to save a summer kitchen which stood directly behind the house, but the barn which stood nearby was not damaged.

Ralph Hamilton, who lives in the Jackson property, was at work on a WPA project at Orient when the fire started. Mrs. Hamilton ran a mile to a neighbor's to call the fire department. She said that the fire apparently started in a clothes press in the house. Firemen were able to get everything from the house except a bed, a stove and two chairs.

The farm house is located five miles southeast of Circleville. The run was the third for the new Township truck.

BRITISH NIP ATTEMPT TO BLAST CONTROLS OF SUEZ

ROME, May 7—An attempt by Egyptian Wafdists to blow up control apparatus at the entrance to the Suez Canal was broken up by British troops, according to a Cairo dispatch in the Giornale D'Italia today.

Eleven Wafdists (members of an anti-British party striving for Egyptian independence) were arrested and held in Alexandria jail, according to the dispatch.

KEATON ADMITS SHOOTING, GOES TO OHIO PRISON

December 24 Episode Comes To End After Change Of Plea

FOUR CHARGES NOLLED

One To 20 Year Sentence Pronounced By Judge Terwilliger

Paris Keaton, 57, indicted by the grand jury on four shooting charges, pleaded guilty Monday afternoon to the charges of shooting at Claude Prindle with intent to wound and was sentenced by Judge Meeker Terwilliger to one to ten years in the Ohio Penitentiary.

After pleading not guilty to all four counts since his indictment in January, Keaton reversed his plea Monday afternoon. Prosecutor George Gerhardt nolleed three counts and a part of the fourth, also charging shooting.

Keaton's trial had been scheduled for hearing before a jury in Common Pleas Court Tuesday.

Keaton has been held in County jail since his arrest following a shooting episode December 24, 1939. The shooting occurred after Keaton had gone to the home of C. C. McCreary, 1 mile east of Circleville, and started a quarrel with the McCrearys, parents of Mrs. Keaton, and Alonzo Tyffe, Robtown.

Mrs. Keaton who had been residing with the McCrearys had run from the house for help when the quarrel started. She stopped the passing automobile of Elwood Moore and Claude Prindle, Commercial Point, for aid. Police said that Keaton who had drawn a .38 revolver and fired three shots through the automobile, fired a total of 18 shots during the episode.

Carl Leist was Keaton's attorney.

KIWANIANS SEE SLIDES, HEAR SALESMANSHIP TALK

Kiwanians conducted their first meeting of the year at the Pickaway Country Club Monday evening with slides on the telephone industry and a talk on salesmanship provided the program. Leonard Snodgrass of the accounting department of the Citizens Telephone Co. was in charge of the program.

He introduced Cee Dee Early, telephone company manager, who showed the slides which dealt with proper use of the telephone. George Griffith discussed "Retail Salesmanship."

The club will be host next Monday to Don Mumford of Bellefontaine, president of the Ohio district Kiwanis Clubs. Each Kiwanian is to take a guest, reservations to be completed by Friday. The following week the Circleville club will go to Newark to participate in a divisional meeting.

VIOLATORS OF COLUMBUS TRAFFIC LAWS WARNED

COLUMBUS, May 7—Columbus violators of so-called minor traffic laws will be warned twice but be arrested on a third infraction, Safety Director George M. Ward declared today.

Ward, just returned to his office from a hospital where he recovered from automobile accident injuries, announced each traffic policeman will be equipped with a small punch. On the first violation, he said the offending drivers' license will be punched once. On the second another hole will be punched and the third violation will bring the driver's arrest, Ward warned.

78 Saved in West Indies Wreck

THEIR ship wrecked in a storm off the Flat Cays in the Bahamas, 78 members of the crew of the British freighter Matakana are taken aboard the steamship Panama. MARTINS FERRY, May 7—William Sevastis, 52-year-old waiter, today was held in the Belmont County jail at St. Clairsville today to await grand jury action on his plea of guilty to first degree murder charges.

Sevastis made his plea when arraigned before Mayor Lee Woods on charges of killing Mike Manos, his employer; Gus Gramatkis, 50; and John Levanis, 39. The waiter told police he "got mad" when Manos refused to lend him money.

Two others were wounded when Sevastis picked up Manos' gun from behind a counter and began firing.

Truth will out, goes the old saying. But she may need to wait until the war is over before making her debut.

ARTHRITIS CITED AS CAUSE FOR DECAYING TEETH

PHILADELPHIA, — Gum disease and tooth decay are caused by arthritis, chronic dyspepsia, neuritis and other ailments, the 18th general session of the International Association of Dental Research was told.

The theory was advanced by Dr. Herbert T. Kelly, of the University of Pennsylvania, Medical School, and two dentists, Drs. John H. Gunter and Herman R. Churchill, of the Dental School.

Prior to their study of the relation between the mouth and systematic ailments, Dr. Kelley said professional men believed the latter were caused by gum disease. He added that best results in treating parodontal disease are obtained when the patient's "nutritional status" first is corrected.

COLUMBUS MAN CITED
Marshall E. Kirkpatrick, 37, 107 East Third Avenue, Columbus, was arrested by Patrolman Carl Radcliff and Alva Shastean at 8:10 Monday evening for driving on North Court Street when under the influence of alcohol. He is being held in jail under a $115 bond. Kirkpatrick was on his way to Columbus when the arrest was made.

CAVALCADE WINS AWARD

For the first time in the eleven-year history of the Institute for Education by Radio, a commercial program, the Cavalcade of America, won first award for any classification. Cavalcade's award, nounced on April 30, for the best dramatic program designed for general use by adults, was made at the eleventh annual meeting of the Institute for Education by Radio, held in Columbus, Ohio at the Ohio State University. Cavalcade's citation was given for the "Abraham Lincoln-War Years" broadcast on February 13.

LANNY ROSS

Lanny Ross will broadcast his Wednesday, May 8, CBS program from Camden, N. J., when Amos and Andy, breaking a non-audience custom of 12 years duration, go there with Lanny to broadcast their program before the more than 2,500 employees of the Campbell Soup Company and members of their families totaling some 8,000 people.

Amos and Andy will be heard at 6:00 p. m. over CBS and Lanny will follow at 6:15 p. m. Lanny's song program will include "Blue Room," "Imagination," "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," and "My Silent Love."

ROSEMARY LANE

Rosemary Lane got into pictures because she was famous on the air. She is returning to radio Thursday, May 9, 8:30 p. m. NBC-Red, as the guest of Rudy Vallee because she is famous in the movies!

Rosemary will play "Cinderella," opposite Rudy as "Prince Charming" when Rudy presents still another of his historical fantasies on the above date. Charley Ruggles, famed film comedian will be cast as the King. Special music, incidental comedy by Maxie Rosenbloom.

CBS STAR THEATRE

With movie star Lloyd Nolan as guest on the Hollywood end, the CBS Star Theatre musical program for Wednesday, May 8, 8:00 p. m. will include "I Feel A Song Coming On" and "Where Was I?" sung by Frances Langford; "Woodpecker's Song" and "Wind and Rain in Your Hair" by Kenny Baker, Dorothy Gish and Walter Abel are the dramatic stars.

RADIO BRIEFS

Lanny Ross' mother will be his guest on the Friday May 10th program, 6:15 p. m. CBS, in celebration of Mother's Day.

Movie star Lloyd Nolan, the heavy in "Johnny Apollo," will guest on the Hollywood end of the Star Theatre program May 8th.

CBS commentator Bob Trout is trading his power boat in on a sailing vessel. Payoff: He's so busy he'll never get to sail it... (he wasn't on his motor boat once last summer) but owning a sailing vessel is his life's dream and Bob says what's the use to work if you can't have what you want?

Joan Blaine is wearing rose-colored glasses to her daily NBC broadcasts but it's not making her happy. Reason: She has a bad case of eye strain from lingering too long under a sunlamp.

Peter Lyon, scripter on the Court of Missing Heirs, is mulling over a Hollywood offer. If he accepts, he'll do scenarios but he'll continue radio scripting too. Wedding anniversary greetings to Fibber McGee's handleader, Billy Mills, who with his wife Gladys, celebrates 18 years of marriage.

WAITER IN JAIL AFTER ADMITTING THREE DEATHS

MARTINS FERRY, May 7—William Sevastis, 52-year-old waiter, today was held in the Belmont County jail at St. Clairsville today to await grand jury action on his plea of guilty to first degree murder charges. Sevastis made his plea when arraigned before Mayor Lee Woods on charges of killing Mike Manos, his employer; Gus Gramatkis, 50; and John Levanis, 39. The waiter told police he "got mad" when Manos refused to lend him money.

Two others were wounded when Sevastis picked up Manos' gun from behind a counter and began firing.

Truth will out, goes the old saying. But she may need to wait until the war is over before making her debut.

Ashville Council May Regulate Speed Of N. & W. Trains Through Village

Ashville, Phone 79

Including their attorney, Emmitt Crist, of the County Seat, the village official family was in session at the council chamber Monday evening. All the bills amounting to $241.90 were paid. Two hundred and fifty feet of fire hose was purchased as additional equipment to the home now in use. The ordinance reducing the speed of N. & W. trains through the village to a slow down of 25 miles an hour, was placed on its second reading. Automobiles, too, are to get theirs in the speed class, that is, when the trains get to 25.

Ashville—William Bowers, Jr., was granted permission for the use of the shelter house in the park to hold dances.

Ashville—Other matters were discussed but no action taken. Clerk Willis told after the meeting.

Ashville—No one to our knowledge has had any word from the well known Sam Hummel who left Ashville several days ago for the home of his son-in-law and daughter, the Wrights, at Montour Falls, New York. Mr. Hummel is classed among the "older youngsters", soon reaching his 86th birthday. But this little matter of age does not interfere with his being active. Last fall he cut several hundred shocks of corn and did a good job of it and corn husking is his delight, stacking up the ears in a neat pile with nary smudgin of husk or silk. Music, too, has been a hobby with him, having taught vocal music for years during the old singing school days and a lead cornet performer in the old Madison Township band.

Ashville—And another "oldtimer" with his hobbies in the same trend, is S. M. (SI) Smith here Monday bent on finding some good seed potatoes. Said that he wanted to get this potato planting out of the way and ahead of the corn field work. Said that "Franklin" of some of his lieutenants had ordered him to sow some lime and he guessed he'd better obey orders. Yes, we got into the selecting favorite candidate business and quit about "fifty-fifty" agreeing on the governor and it wasn't Bricker either. And in politics generally, all the county candidates missed us Monday, being out in the townships verbally exhibiting their wares. Several of them have told us that they "never before knew that Pickaway County had so many people and miles in it". Learned that several years ago when we made "the whole territory" several times and met "the finest people on earth".

Ashville—L. E. Foreman, as we told you the other day, has installed a gas pump at his place of business on Main Street, facing Long. . . Mrs. Olive Logsdon was returned home from a Columbus hospital by the Schlegel ambulance so it was announced yesterday. . . The Brethren church people are preparing for their jitney supper to be served Thursday evening.

Fewer persons lost their lives in railroad accidents in 1939 than in any year since the inter-state commerce commission began the compilation of these reports in 1888.

the phrase "daily increasing demands," Chamberlain then promised "to talk again to the Turks," but added that he could not guarantee anything "if the eternal self-glorification and individualism down there isn't stopped."

"Reynaud assured him that he would do his utmost to straighten out the difficulties."

"Chamberlain then asked the French premier, in a rather imperative tone, to report to him at the latest by May 20 that the final conclusion of all preparations had been accomplished."

"There were then some further cordial formalities, and just before the talk finished Chamberlain suddenly asked Reynaud to take care that this time there would be no indiscretions from French quarters."

Stories of the alleged telephone talk were published under flaring headlines reading:

"Attention! To All Whom It May Concern! Zero Hour May 20!"

Newspapers Alarmed

All newspapers repeated their editions to carry the story on their front pages and the newspapers Deutsches Allgemeine Zeitung commented:

"The conversation explains Chamberlain's speech before the House of Commons May 2 and confirms German suspicions regarding the Mediterranean."

"Absurdity" of the German claims to have listened in to a "phone conversation between the Allied premiers was pointed out in many informed quarters. These circles emphasized the almost-daily meetings of the Allied War Council, whose members travel back and forth between London and Paris for the express purpose of personally conducting discussions rather than use radio, cable or telephone for their exchange of views and plans."

FIRE HITS RESORT; LOSS ESTIMATED NEAR $100,000

ISLAND HEIGHTS, N. J., May 7.—Causing damage estimated at $100,000, fire which raged more than three hours today destroyed 40 small cabin cruisers, motor boats and sailing vessels in two boat storing establishments at this resort.

Volunteer firemen from 12 adjacent communities were hampered in their fight by explosion of a gasoline drum in a storage shed. A summer bungalow was ruined and five large cabin cruisers were damaged by the blaze.

Firemen expressed belief the fire started in the Joseph Vautier boat storage building and spread northward to the Arthur Stokes works, both on Toms River.

HEALTHIER, NURSE BEGIN PRE-SCHOOL EXAMINATION

A pre-school health clinic has been organized by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, who Tuesday went with Margaret Hunsicker, county health nurse, to Williamsport school to examine children who will start to school this fall.

Recommendations concerning each child's health will be made to the parents so that any child requiring medical attention may receive it before starting to school.

Dr. Blackburn and Miss Hunsicker will go to Washington Township school Wednesday.

Any school in the county may obtain the service of the clinic on request.

ANGRY SCHOOL MAN KILLS FOUR

Two shots entered the region of her heart.

Spencer then dashed out of the building and across the street where he got in his car and drove away without interference from terror-stricken students.

At the junior high school campus he entered the class room of Mrs. Sturgeon, a veteran member of the faculty, who sat alone correcting papers. She rose to defend herself when she saw Spencer aiming his gun at her and tried to wrest it from him. He emptied his gun into her body during the brief struggle, and as Mrs. Sturgeon slumped to the floor, Spencer walked out of the room. He paused in the corridor long enough to re-load his weapon, and then went out onto the campus.

There he encountered Vanderlip and at gunpoint forced him to precede him to a basement storeroom.

Vanderlip put up a terrific struggle, but Spencer pumped three bullets into the instructor's head. Then he dumped the victim's body into a basket of machine shop sweepings, and went back to the campus.

Missed Own Heart

He passed Vice Principal F. J. Flynn as though in a daze and entered the school cafeteria, empty at that hour of the day. There, he placed the gun against his heart and once more, pulled the trigger, but ironically, his aim, so accurate before, was less precise in self-destruction. The bullet missed his heart, and officers who had been called to the campus, found him lying insensible on the floor.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PLAYS SELDOM SEEN

MOST OF the fancy plays known to advanced players are found in one game or another every once in a while. Some of them, however, though thoroughly understood, seldom are witnessed except in problem hands deliberately set up to furnish an interesting puzzle. When one of them does develop in actual play, it is worth recording, and proves the value of having learned the play. One of the prettiest of these is a rare sort of squeeze, in which one defender is obliged on a certain trick to discard in such a way that he puts his partner at the mercy of the declarer on the next trick.

Fred J. Slater, brilliant cardman in the South, was almost ready for the big slam as soon as he heard his partner's opening bid, and his club call was merely as insurance to help prevent a lead of that suit. When West led the heart J, he counted a dozen tricks, with a squeeze chances for the thirteenth. He won the first trick with the K, played the Q and noted East's club discard, planned the rest of the play then and embarked on the scheme by playing to the spade A. Then he ran the diamonds.

On the last diamond, the ninth trick, West had to hold two hearts to guard that suit, so was obliged to cut down to two clubs, leaving that suit to his partner. Poor East could not do it, because he also had to protect his side against the spade Q. He was all right until the heart A was led to the tenth trick. Declarer discarded the spade Q from dummy, as he held the spade 8 and West had long since got rid of his spade 9. A club discard by East here would have built up the dummy's third club, so he tossed the spade K, and the 8 became good in South's hand for the eleventh trick, clubs giving Mr. Slater the last two needed.

SCORE OF 3,047 WINS ABC MEET AS EVENT ENDS

DETROIT, May 7.—The curtain was to fall on the fortieth annual American Bowling Congress tournament today with the Chicago Monarchs maintaining a three-week lead to annex the five-man title on a 3,047 count and a prize of $1500.

As the current classic—termed by officials "the greatest ever"—nearly completed, with only today's minor events session remaining on the 62-day schedule, the Monarchs assured Chicago of its 17th world's championship.

They replace the Fife Electric Co., of Detroit, as reigning titleholders.

It marked the first time a team had ever annexed the title with a substitute in its lineup. The Monarchs entered Harry Angel for Anchorman Bill Lenzen, who had injured his thumb, in the fifth frame of their first, and it was the sub's remarkable "clutch" effort which paved the way for the lowest winning count in the last five years. The Monarchs finished in 12th place last year with 3008.

With the only other "3000" series of the classic, a darkhorse Rosedale Club of Kansas City, Kan., annexed runner-up honors with 3003 and a $1200 prize for their efforts.

Under the new award system inaugurated this year, 1034 teams will share in the $67,935 pot for five-man winners while the total prize list will exceed $240,000.

MINISTER PUTS FIRST LORD IN VITAL POSITION

rupted career of failure," he said. "Norway follows Czechoslovakia and Poland. Everywhere it is too late."

Caught War Bus

"Chamberlain and his associates have been missing the buses ever since 1931. They missed all the peace buses, but not the war bus."

"We shall win this war," he concluded. "But we want people at the helm other than those who presently lead us."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the liberal leader, was less bitter.

Norway was not a major disaster," he said. "But more foresight and energy and a stronger and more ruthless will for victory are required in the supreme conduct of our war effort."

Both government supporters and the opposition joined the cheering that greeted this statement.

Chamberlain's first move was to turn down an opposition demand for another secret session of the house to discuss alleged deficiencies in Britain's fighting services.

Chamberlain's government supporters cheered almost constantly to drown out opposition taunts. As he rose, the prime minister paid tribute to the "splendid gallantry and skill" of all branches of the British forces engaged in Norway "whatever criticism may be made about anyone else."

News A Shock

"The prime minister admitted that news of the British withdrawal from Andalsnes had created a 'profound shock', to which the opposition shouted:

"And it still is!" Opposition interruptions became so frequent at the outset of Chamberlain's statement that the speaker was compelled to intervene with the announcement he would not permit them to continue.

Chamberlain sought at the outset to absolve the armed forces completely for the Norwegian setback.

"We must expect to be blamed for everything," he said, referring to his government.

"Our withdrawal from Norway is not comparable to Gallipoli."

"No large forces were involved—not much more than a single division."

Force Small One

(This was Chamberlain's first admission that not more than fifteen or twenty thousand British troops comprised the expeditionary force sent to Norway.)

"Our losses were not really great in men or material. The German losses were far heavier in warships, planes, transports and men."

The aging prime minister had to face Commons only a day following admission that three more Allied destroyers — the British Afridi, the French Bison and the Polish Grom — had been sent to the bottom off Norway by German bombers with a possible loss of some 500 lives.

At the same time, in a daring military exploit, German troops were pushing northward from southern Norway across rugged, mountainous terrain in an effort to rescue the German garrison beleaguered by the Allies at the northern port of Narvik.

Reuters dispatches stated, meanwhile, the Allied troops are tightening their grip on Narvik and that Norwegian troops have reached the railway running from Narvik to Sweden.

Race Under Way

Other Norwegian troops were heading North in a desperate race to head off the German reinforcements.

An epilogue to the Norwegian adventure was spoken by Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff, in an address to battle worn British troops who returned to England from Central Norway.

"Don't think you were driven out of Norway," he told them. "You were ordered out . . . you have come back with your tails up."

Germany, for the moment at least, turned attention to the Mediterranean crisis by charging that in a telephone conversation between Chamberlain and French Premier Paul Reynaud, "the zero hour for the Allied attack in the Mediterranean" was set for May 20.

Authoritative London quarters branded this claim as "fantastic."

But Budapest reported continued feverish activity by the Balkan nations to preserve their neutrality as a new British naval squadron anchored in Alexandria Harbor, ready for action in any emergency.

At the same time, a mighty economic duel between Britain and Germany was being waged for control of Balkan trade.

He paused in the corridor long enough to re-load his weapon, and then went out onto the campus.

There he encountered Vanderlip and at gunpoint forced him to precede him to a basement store-room.

Vanderlip put up a terrific struggle, but Spencer pumped three bullets into the instructor's head. Then he dumped the victim's body into a basket of machine shop sweepings, and went back to the campus.

Missed Own Heart

He passed Vice Principal F. J. Flynn as though in a daze and entered the school cafeteria, empty at that hour of the day. There, he placed the gun against his heart and once more, pulled the trigger, but ironically, his aim, so accurate before, was less precise in self-destruction. The bullet missed his heart, and officers who had been called to the campus, found him lying insensible on the floor.

MRS. SAMUEL HETTINGER IS DEAD IN KINGSTON

Mrs. Electa Hettinger, 49, wife of Samuel Hettinger of Kingston, died Monday at 6:45 p. m. after an illness of four months. She was a native of Vinton County, born October 14, 1890, a daughter of John and Electa Walter Wolfe.

Surviving are the husband; a daughter, Mrs. Henry Jones at home; three sisters, Mrs. Moses Tatman and Mrs. Arthur Roff of Chillicothe, and Miss Macey Wolfe of near McArthur; six brothers, Edward, Ruford, and Herschel of McArthur, Grover of near Whisler and Thomas and Elmer Wolfe of Washington C. H.

She was a member of the Methodist Church, its Ladies Aid in the Philathea Sunday School class.

The funeral will be Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home, the Revs. E. A. Keaton and F. J. Batterson officiating with burial in Mount Pleasant Cemetery by Donald E. Whitel.

PLAYS SELDOM SEEN

MOST OF the fancy plays known to advanced players are found in one game or another every once in a while. Some of them, however, though thoroughly understood, seldom are witnessed except in problem hands deliberately set up to furnish an interesting puzzle. When one of them does develop in actual play, it is worth recording, and proves the value of having learned the play. One of the prettiest of these is a rare sort of squeeze, in which one defender is obliged on a certain trick to discard in such a way that he puts his partner at the mercy of the declarer on the next trick.

Fred J. Slater, brilliant cardman in the South, was almost ready for the big slam as soon as he heard his partner's opening bid, and his club call was merely an insurance to help prevent a lead of that suit. When West led the heart J, he counted a dozen tricks, with a squeeze chance for the thirteenth. He won the first trick with the K, played the Q and noted East's club discard, planned the rest of the play then and embarked on the scheme by playing to the spade A. Then he ran the diamonds.

On the last diamond, the ninth trick, West had to hold two hearts to guard that suit, so was obliged to cut down to two clubs, leaving that suit to his partner. Poor East could not do it, because he also had to protect his side against the spade Q. He was all right until the heart A was led to the tenth trick. Declarer discarded the spade Q from dummy, as he held the spade 8 and West had long since got rid of his spade 9. A club discard by East here would have built up the dummy's third club, so he tossed the spade K, and the 8 became good in South's hand for the eleventh trick, clubs giving Mr. Slater the last two needed.

SCORE OF 3,047 WINS ABC MEET AS EVENT ENDS

DETROIT, May 7.—The curtain was to fall on the fortieth annual American Bowling Congress tournament today with the Chicago Monarchs maintaining a three-week lead to annex the five-man title on a 3,047 count and a prize of $1500.

As the current classic—termed by officials "the greatest ever"—nearly completed, with only today's minor events session remaining on the 62-day schedule, the Monarchs assured Chicago of its 17th world's championship.

They replace the Fife Electric Co., of Detroit, as reigning titleholders.

It marked the first time a team had ever annexed the title with a substitute in its lineup. The Monarchs entered Harry Angel for Anchorman Bill Lenzen, who had injured his thumb, in the fifth frame of their first, and it was the sub's remarkable "clutch" effort which paved the way for the lowest winning count in the last five years.

With the only other "3000" series of the classic, a darkhorse Rosedale Club of Kansas City, Kan., annexed runner-up honors with 3003 and a $1200 prize for their efforts.

Under the new award system inaugurated this year, 1034 teams will share in the $67,935 pot for five-man winners while the total prize list will exceed $240,000.

The semi-final minor events session proved to be one of the most uneventful of the tournament as no challenge was made to the current ranking scores, which are expected to withstand today's final assault.

Standings: doubles, Herb Freitag—Joe Sinke, Chicago, 1346; singles, Ray Brown, Terre Haute, Ind., 742; all-events, Fred Fischer, Buffalo, 2001.

rupt career of failure," he said. "Norway follows Czechoslovakia and Poland. Everywhere it is too late."

Caught War Bus

"Chamberlain and his associates have been missing the buses ever since 1931. They missed all the peace buses, but not the war bus."

"We shall win this war," he concluded. "But we want people at the helm other than those who presently lead us."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the liberal leader, was less bitter.

Norway was not a major disaster," he said. "But more foresight and energy and a stronger and more ruthless will for victory are required in the supreme conduct of our war effort."

Both government supporters and the opposition joined the cheering that greeted this statement.

Chamberlain's first move was to turn down an opposition demand for another secret session of the house to discuss alleged deficiencies in Britain's fighting services.

Chamberlain's government supporters cheered almost constantly to drown out opposition taunts. As he rose, the prime minister paid tribute to the "splendid gallantry and skill" of all branches of the British forces engaged in Norway "whatever criticism may be made about anyone else."

News A Shock

"The prime minister admitted that news of the British withdrawal from Andalsnes had created a 'profound shock', to which the opposition shouted:

"And it still is!" Opposition interruptions became so frequent at the outset of Chamberlain's statement that the speaker was compelled to intervene with the announcement he would not permit them to continue.

Chamberlain sought at the outset to absolve the armed forces completely for the Norwegian setback.

"We must expect to be blamed for everything," he said, referring to his government.

"Our withdrawal from Norway is not comparable to Gallipoli. 'No large forces were involved—not much more than a single division."

Force Small One

(This was Chamberlain's first admission that not more than fifteen or twenty thousand British troops comprised the expeditionary force sent to Norway.)

"Our losses were not really great in men or material. The German losses were far heavier in warships, planes, transports and men."

The aging prime minister had to face Commons only a day following admission that three more Allied destroyers—the British Afridi, the French Bison and the Polish Grom—had been sent to the bottom off Norway by German bombers with a possible loss of some 500 lives.

At the same time, in a daring military exploit, German troops were pushing northward from southern Norway across rugged, mountainous terrain in an effort to rescue the German garrison beleaguered by the Allies at the northern ore port of Narvik.

Reuters dispatches stated, meanwhile, the Allied troops are tightening their grip on Narvik and that Norwegian troops have reached the railway running from Narvik to Sweden.

Race Under Way

Other Norwegian troops were heading North in a desperate race to head off the German reinforcements.

An epilogue to the Norwegian adventure was spoken by Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff, in an address to battle worn British troops who returned to England from Central Norway.

"Don't think you were driven out of Norway," he told them. "You were ordered out . . . you have come back with your tails up."

Germany, for the moment at least, turned attention to the Mediterranean crisis by charging that in a telephone conversation between Chamberlain and French Premier Paul Reynaud, "the zero hour for the Allied attack in the Mediterranean" was set for May 20.

Authoritative London quarters branded this claim as "fantastic." But Budapest reported continued feverish activity by the Balkan nations to preserve their neutrality as a new British naval squadron anchored in Alexandria Harbor, ready for action in any emergency.

At the same time, a mighty economic duel between Britain and Germany was being waged for control of Balkan trade.

Court of Appeals Candidate

Judicial elections will hold more than usual interest for Washington County voters this year. . . . For the first time in many years, so far as we recall, our county has an active candidate for judge of the fourth district Court of Appeals.

Former Senator Verner E. Metcalf's candidacy for judge of the Court of Appeals is pleasing to many people in the fifteen counties of the district, and particularly in his home county. He has qualifications for the position that are based on training and experience, and have been demonstrated repeatedly by the service he has given in public office. His recognized ability is supplemented by independence of thought and action that would make him a strong man on the bench. His election would also be a recognition of Washington County to which it is entitled.

Mr. Metcalf was a member of the Marietta school board for ten years. He was prosecuting attorney of Washington County for two terms and gave a capable, aggressive and satisfactory administration of that office. He was state senator from the Ninth-Fourteenth district for two terms. He made his mark quickly in the Senate, became Republican floor leader and was the spark plug of the "legal graft" investigation that resulted in correction of many abuses in our state government. He is now chairman of the board of review of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

His qualifications for the bench and his state-wide reputation make him a strong candidate.

Five States To Determine Presidential Choices
In Tuesday Ballot

WEST COAST WATCHED

Roosevelt May Have Enough Supporters To Carry Nomination

WASHINGTON, May 7—Millions of American voters in five states step behind the little white curtains in voting booths today to cast their ballots in a nation-wide test of third term sentiment.

President Roosevelt may well be assured of a third term nomination by nightfall if he scores an impressive victory in the California primary, which tops the list of balloting states. There are state-conducted primaries in South Dakota and Indiana, while the Democrats hold party primaries in Florida and Alabama.

California offers the most important test of the day on the third term issue. There are two Roosevelt slates in the Democratic primary, with a third slate supporting Vice President John N. Garner and a fourth endorsing a "ham and eggs" program. If the President wins, as is expected, most political prophets will concede his renomination should be desired a third term.

The Republican primary in California meanwhile may give former President Herbert Hoover a vehicle through which to exercise his influence on the Philadelphia convention in June. There is one slate of uninstructed delegates in the G. O. P. primary and rumor in Washington proclaims it a Hoover slate. This may mean the former president's name will be presented to the G. O. P. conclave or it may mean only that Mr. Hoover proposes to have something to say about the identity of the next Republican presidential nominee.

How Vote May Go

The capitol sees the other primaries in this fashion:

1. South Dakota. The Democrats to elect a delegation pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley; the Republicans to choose an unrestricted slate, probably dividing its vote among a number of G. O. P. hopefuls.

2. Indiana. Primary covers congressional offices, state offices and delegates to state conventions. Democrats to elect delegates pledged to Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, who is not a candidate if the President seeks a third term. Republicans to elect delegates, pledged more to candidates for state offices than to presidential aspirants, with final decision of their state convention clouded in doubt. Twelve representatives seek renomination.

3. Florida. Democrats to elect a third-term delegation. Biggest fight is over candidacy of Sen. Charles O. Andrews for renomination. He is opposed by Governor Fred T. Cone, Railroadier Jerry Carter, Author Charles Francis Cox and Publisher Bernard Mac Fadden. If no one wins a clear plurality, the top two will stage a run-off primary on May 28. Five representatives seek renomination.

In California there are 44 delegates at stake in both Democratic and Republican primaries. In South Dakota, there are eight delegates in each party. In Indiana, the number is 28 on both sides. Florida has 14 and Alabama 22 in the Democratic conclave. Thus by nightfall, the President can have 108 more delegates pledged to his renomination, even if Farley should hold out the eight in South Dakota.

YOUTH ADMITS FAILING TO STOP AFTER MISHAP

COLUMBUS, May 7—Richard French, 25, remained in Franklin County jail today after he was unable to pay a $200 fine imposed at nearby Groveport when he pleaded guilty to charges of failing to stop after a fatal auto accident.

French was accused of driving the car that struck and fatally injured nine-year-old Robert Peck near Groveport as the boy was riding a bicycle.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

"IGNORANT, GULLIBLE OR POLITICAL"

Veteran fliers of our passenger airlines have come to Washington to protest the abolition of the Air Safety Board and the transfer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to the tender mercies of Harry Hopkins. For their temerity Mr. Roosevelt has called them ignorant, gullible or political.

Perhaps he said something. These pilots are evidently ignorant of White House technique; gullible in assuming they might be treated as sincere and honest men; and political in thinking they still had a constitutional right to petition Congress for the redress of grievances. Guilty on all counts! Citizens who are thus ignorant, gullible and political should avoid Washington. "Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die."

When the next crash comes, and the old political whitewash is applied to cover up the man or mechanism at fault, these pilots will be permitted to attend the funeral of the man who died at the controls, and perhaps drop roses from the sky and keep their mouths shut.

I remember when the black headlines stabbed through to the hearts of millions with the news that Knute Rockne was dead! That Senator Cutting was dead! And day after day, week after week, a fine young Army flyer died trying to fly the air mail. Oh yes, there were investigations, inquiries, post-mortems de luxe. An attempt was made to crucify Lindbergh who might have found out something and told what he found. And every body was so sorry! But what came of the investigations? And of the accidents at sea? The steamship off the New Jersey coast when scores died in a burning wreck without fire apparatus or life belts. Ships and planes under the Department of Commerce, reeking with politics, rotten with nepotism, staffed with the in-laws of the great.

Keep your mouth shut, pilot. Don't get ignorant, pilot. Don't be gullible, pilot. Dead men tell no tales.

But don't get political, pilot. The dead shall bury the dead. The delegation of veteran flyers which went to Washington represented 1,500 other pilots. It was not made up of ward heelers. No big city machine gave them jobs for votes. Oh, if ward heelers had come to Washington to ask for something, that would have been different. The doors are always open to non-political ward heelers in this non-political town. They "never went away empty handed."

These pilots are different. They are not the cocktail crowd of the payroll brigade you see chomping every Washington barroom immediately after the clock strikes. Yes, they are different—men who don't drink, men of fine character, splendid discipline and iron courage.

But they have no business in Washington. They are not the emissaries of Kelly-Nash, or Boss Hague or Pittsburgh Plus. They are nothing but pilots, you understand.

but he said he was "being frightfully polite" in so describing them. Last year they flew 87,225,145 miles, and brought everyone of their 2,028,817 passengers safe to their homes. They are proud of that marvellous record. And now they are sick with worry.

But being ignorant, gullible and political they flew to the wrong town. There is no beacon for pilots in Washington! Win or lose these pilots have told the story of the bureaucrats more effectively than any other group. They are waking up the country and it is fighting back. The folks back home know that pilots know more about flying than the arm chair quarterbacks in Washington. And that goes for a lot of things beside aviation.

Washington Merry-Go- Round

more through the inexpensive medium of printer's ink than any man in history. For Mussolini is playing both sides against the middle. From Hitler he has already won the promise of a free hand in the Balkans. From the French he has won a recent invitation to discuss the problem of North Africa. And from the United States he and left-handed recognition of Ethiopia.

How far the trade treaty discussions with Italy will go remains to be seen. There is no question that the President regards Mussolini as the key for European peace or for tipping the scales for violent war. So he wants to butter him up.

SENATOR NYE ON BENITO
Quote of the week comes from Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota: "Mussolini is like Southern Republic delegates—easy to buy but hard to keep bought."

CAPITAL CHAFF
Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters, is having trouble with his own union because of his third term support for Roosevelt. The A. F. of L. is boiling with resentment because of Thurman Arnold's anti-trust prosecutions. Some of the President's intimates devoutly wish he would drop the proposed reorganization of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. They figure that if the plan goes through, he will get the blame for every airplane crash from now on. Those around the White House are wise-cracking that whenever the President wants to convince himself against a third term, he sends another chair back to Hyde Park. Roosevelt is inclining against another four years, but these same wise-crackers are betting that in the end he will run.

ICELAND AND U. S.
There is a lot more behind the rushing of American consuls to

Greenland and Iceland than appears on the surface. Botted down to cold facts, the Roosevelt Administration is afraid of a Nazi air base only 1500 miles from Maine. Bombing planes already have been developed which can fly this far—loaded.

Therefore many more preparations are going on than the State Department is announcing, all in order to keep the Danish islands in the North Atlantic from being taken over by Hitler.

One such move is the probable sending of U. S. Army planes to Iceland in the not too distant future to carry mail. Probably they will be army bombers—without the bombs.

Red Cross stations also will be established. And most significant of all, one of the men being sent by the State Department to Iceland is a West Point graduate.

Meanwhile the Prime Minister of Iceland has been in direct cable communication with State Department, and reports the Icelanders eager for close cooperation, if not the actual protection of the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 7—Millions of American voters in five states step behind the little white curtains in voting booths today to cast their ballots in a nation-wide test of third term sentiment.

There are state-conducted primaries in South Dakota and Indiana, while the Democrats hold party primaries in Florida and Alabama.

California offers the most important test of the day on the third term issue. There are two Roosevelt slates in the Democratic primary, with a third slate supporting Vice President John N. Garner and a fourth endorsing a "ham and eggs" program. If the President wins, as is expected, most political prophets will concede his renomination should he desire a third term.

The Republican primary in California meanwhile may give former President Herbert Hoover a vehicle through which to exercise his influence on the Philadelphia convention in June. There is one slate of unopposed delegates in the G. O. P. primary and rumor in Washington proclaims it a Hoover slate. This may mean the former president's name will be presented to the G. O. P. conclave or it may mean only that Mr. Hoover proposes to have something to say about the identity of the next Republican presidential nominee.

How Vote May Go

The capitol sees the other primaries in this fashion:

1. South Dakota. The Democrats to elect a delegation pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley; the Republicans to choose an unrestricted slate, probably dividing its vote among a number of G. O. P. hopefuls.

2. Indiana. Primary covers congressional offices, state offices and delegates to state conventions. Democrats to elect delegates pledged to Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, who is not a candidate if the President seeks a third term. Republicans to elect delegates, pledged more to candidates for state offices than to presidential aspirants, with final decision of their state convention clouded in doubt. Twelve representatives seek renomination.

3. Florida. Democrats to elect a third-term delegation. Biggest fight is over candidacy of Sen. Charles O. Andrews for renomination. He is opposed by Governor Fred T. Cone, Railroadman Jerry Carter, Author Charles Francis Cox and Publisher Bernard Mac Fadden. If no one wins a clear plurality, the top two will stage a run-off primary on May 28. Five representatives seek renomination.

In California there are 44 delegates at stake in both Democratic and Republican primaries. In South Dakota, there are eight delegates in each party. In Indiana, the number is 28 on both sides. Florida has 14 and Alabama 22 in the Democratic conclave. Thus by tonight, the President can have 108 more delegates pledged to his renomination, even if Farley should hold out the eight in South Dakota.

YOUTH ADMITS FAILING
TO STOP AFTER MISHAP

COLUMBUS, May 7—Richard French, 25, remained in Franklin County jail today after he was unable to pay a $200 fine imposed at nearby Groveport when he pleaded guilty to charges of failing to stop after a fatal auto accident.

French was accused of driving the car that struck and fatally injured nine-year-old Robert Peck near Groveport as the boy was riding a bicycle.

PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

"IGNORANT, GULLIBLE OR POLITICAL"

Veteran fliers of our passenger airlines have come to Washington to protest the abolition of the Air Safety Board and the transfer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to the tender mercies of Harry Hopkins. For their temerity Mr. Roosevelt has called them ignorant, gullible or political.

Guilty on all counts! Citizens who are thus ignorant, gullible and political should avoid Washington. "Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die."

When the next crash comes, and the old political whitewash is applied to cover up the man or mechanism at fault, these pilots will be permitted to attend the funeral of the man who died at the controls, and perhaps drop roses from the sky and keep their mouths shut.

I remember when the black headlines stabbed through to the hearts of millions with the news that Knute Rockne was dead! That Senator Cutting was no more! And day after day, week after week, a fine young Army flyer died trying to fly the air mail. Oh yes, there were investigations, inquiries, post-mortems de luxe. An attempt was made to crucify Lindbergh who might have found out something and told what he found. And everybody was so sorry! But what came of the investigations? And of the accidents at sea? The steamship off the New Jersey coast when scores died in a burning wreck without fire apparatus or life belts. Ships and planes under the Department of Commerce, reeking with politics, rotten with nepotism, staffed with the in-laws of the great.

Keep your mouth shut, pilot. Don't get ignorant, pilot. Don't be gullible, pilot. Dead men tell no tales.

But don't get political, pilot. The dead shall bury the dead. The delegation of veteran flyers which went to Washington represented 1,500 other pilots. It was not made up of ward heelers. No big city machine gave them jobs for votes. Oh, if ward heelers had come to Washington to ask for something, that would have been different. The doors are always open to non-political ward heelers in this non-political town. They "never went away empty handed."

These pilots are different. They are not the cocktail crowd of the payroll brigade you see choking every Washington barroom immediately after the clock strikes. Yes, they are different—men who don't drink, men of fine character, splendid discipline and iron courage.

But they have no business in Washington. They are not the emissaries of Kelly-Nash, or Boss Hague or Pittsburgh Plus. They are nothing but pilots, you understand.

When he said he was "being frightfully polite" in so describing them. Last year they flew 87,225,145 miles, and brought everyone of their 2,028,817 passengers safe to their homes. They are proud of that marvellous record. And now they are sick with worry.

But being ignorant, gullible and political they flew to the wrong town. There is no beacon for pilots in Washington!

Win or lose these pilots have told the story of the bureaucrats more effectively than any other group. They are waking up the country and it is fighting back. The folks back home know that pilots know more about flying than the arm chair quarterbacks in Washington. And that goes for a lot of things beside aviation.

more through the inexpensive medium of printer's ink than any man in history. For Mussolini is playing both sides against the middle. From Hitler he has already won the promise of a free hand in the Balkans. From the French he has won a recent invitation to discuss the problem of North Africa. And from the United States he and left-handed recognition of Ethiopia.

How far the trade treaty discussions with Italy will go remains to be seen. There is no question that the President regards Mussolini as the key for European peace or for tipping the scales for violent war. So he wants to butter him up.

SENATOR NYE ON BENITO
Quote of the week comes from Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota: "Mussolini is like Southern Republic delegates—easy to buy but hard to keep bought."

CAPITAL CHAFF

Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters, is having trouble with his own union because of his third term support for Roosevelt. The A. F. of L. is boiling with resentment because of Thurman Arnold's anti-trust prosecutions. . . . Some of the President's intimates devoutly wish he would drop the proposed reorganization of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. They figure that if the plan goes through, he will get the blame for every airplane crash from now on. . . . Those around the White House are wise-cracking that whenever the President wants to convince himself against a third term, he sends another chair back to Hyde Park. Roosevelt is inclining against another four years, but these same wise-crackers are betting that in the end he will run.

ICELAND AND U. S.

There is a lot more behind the rushing of American consuls to

Greenland and Iceland than appears on the surface.

Boiled down to cold facts, the Roosevelt Administration is afraid of a Nazi air base only 1500 miles from Maine. Bombing planes already have been developed which can fly this far—loaded.

Therefore many more preparations are going on than the State Department is announcing, all in order to keep these Danish islands in the North Atlantic from being taken over by Hitler.

One such move is the probable sending of U. S. Army planes to Iceland in the not too distant future to carry mail. Probably they will be army bombers—without the bombs.

Red Cross stations also will be established. And most significant of all, one of the men being sent by the State Department to Iceland is a West Point graduate.

Meanwhile the Prime Minister of Iceland has been in direct cable communication with State Department, and reports the Icelanders eager for close cooperation, if not the actual protection of the United States.

C. V., Chicago—The Missouri delegation to the Democratic National Convention will be practically 100 percent for Roosevelt if he chooses to run again—thanks to the missionary work of Governor Lloyd Stark. . . . PROGRESS, prosperity and generally propitious circumstances may be looked for on this day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time for promoting projects of a novel, revolutionary and unacknowledged character, which will attract the attention of superiors, especially in large corporations, or where the influence of political, diplomatic or secret organizations is desired. Strategy or intrigue may be factors in connection with group action. Professional advancement in many directions is under excellent auspices, as are social aims.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great promise, with progress and advancement in many new directions. Fresh or novel ideas, even though radically different from old methods, will attract the attention of superiors, progressive organizations and forward-looking groups. Political or fraternal influences are assured, and the professions are in line for outstanding recognition and preferment. Likewise, social innovations will prove attractive and lucrative. Push to high goals of originality and independent creations or plans.

RECLAIMED DUST BOWL

THE dust bowl has been saved from turning into desert in the near future. The farmers of the region, with the help of federal and state government experts, have reversed their own unsound practices and have cooperated in establishing new agricultural methods. The Kansas City Times recently listed some of these changes.

"Fields are left in a cloddy condition," it reported, "until the last minute before seeding now, instead of being harrowed down as formerly."

"Thousands of acres, unprofitable for wheat, have been seeded to grass, while in other areas strip farming is being practiced."

"Grain sorghums are being grown and their stalks allowed to stand as a protection during the winter and early spring."

"Contour plowing and listing are employed everywhere to conserve moisture."

"Shelter belts of trees are being used to break wind force."

The job isn't finished, and later there may be temptation to go back to the old and harmful methods, to plow too much land or turn the shelter belts into wood lots with nothing left but stumps. If we have learned the lesson of the great dust storms of 1934, however, conservation will prevail.

TIME-JUGGLING

THIS business of turning back the hands of a clock to prolong a legislative day—sometimes for weeks—has no appeal to Vice President Garner. Neither does he approve the parliamentary practice of prolonging a "day" instead of adjourning. "So far as this occupant of the chair is concerned," he says, "a day means twenty-four hours and not forty-eight or more hours. If the Senate wants to it can overrule me, but I hold that a day is twenty-four hours."

And what about daylight saving time, soon to descend upon and befuddle the American people? This variety of clock-changing is calmly accepted in many places now, after years of experience. It remains the subject of hot argument, disagreement and confusion in others. ### MUSSOLINI DIDN'T PROMISE

WASHINGTON — When Ambassador Phillips called upon Mussolini last week it was the first time in one year and a half (with one exception) that a U. S. envoy had seen the real dictator of Italy.

The one exception was when Sumner Welles visited Rome and insisted that Ambassador Phillips sit in on his talk with Mussolini. For eighteen months prior to that, Il Duce had not seen one foreign diplomat except the German.

The latest conference between Phillips and Mussolini was highly significant. In the first place, Phillips got the audience only because the President of the United States asked for it personally. He made representations through the Italian Embassy in Washington that he wanted his Ambassador to be received by Mussolini and no underling.

What Roosevelt wanted, of course, was some word regarding Italy's war aims.

When Ambassador Phillips finally got in the inner sanctum, he did not approach the war question directly. Naturally no ambassador can ask the ruler of any country whether he intends to make war. Instead, Phillips raised the question of American shipping in the Mediterranean, and remarked that it would have to be withdrawn if the situation became more tense.

It was at this point that Mussolini replied reassuringly, and indicated that American shipping did not have to worry. But there was nothing very definite or categorical in what he said. He did not specifically promise that there would be no war.

ITALIAN-U. S. TRADE

However, Ambassador Phillips discussed another matter which also required an optimistic atmosphere, a trade treaty between the United States and Italy.

This had been proposed about three years ago, but was dropped because the Italians demanded too much. Particularly they demanded that the treaty be signed by the "King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia"—which would recognize Italy's conquest of that country.

Non-recognition of territory obtained by force is one of the rock-ribbed foreign policies of the United States, particularly in Manchuria. It was outlined first by William Jennings Bryan, reaffirmed by Henry L. Stimson, and continued by Roosevelt. So the trade treaty with Italy, then proposed, went up the flue.

Now, however, new negotiations are in the works, and it looks as if this time the United States would not object to letting King Victor Emmanuel sign his John Henry on the treaty as "Emperor of Ethiopia." The State Department now inclines toward the view that this would not weaken our non-recognition policy.

MOST SKIN disturbances attack only one part of the body. Several are local to the scalp. Children, particularly, have ringworm, lice and impetigo infection in this region, and in older people the scalp is likely to have fatty irritation (seborrheic dermatitis), psoriasis, alopecia or baldness, hair dye dermatitis, wens, warts, etc.

A particular breed of louse invades the scalp and can be detected by the itching and the presence of insects and nits in the hair. The nits are shiny, seed-shaped bodies with one end cemented to the shaft of the hair. Enlargement of the lymph nodes in the neck may accompany this condition in a child.

The use of certain ointments for two or three days will destroy the living insects in the hair. The nits are resistant to soap and water but can be destroyed by diluted vinegar, a proportion of one part of vinegar to four parts of water. After the insects have been destroyed, the nits should be removed by thorough combing with a dust comb moistened with vinegar.

Condition in Children

Ringworm, and especially honey-comb ringworm or favus, is a very unsightly condition of children. It forms crusts, and there is loss of hair and a bleeding, disgusting-looking scalp. It sometimes starts without itching and may be caught from a pet animal or contaminated combs, brushes and bed linen.

The treatment had better be left to a doctor but it is important to know that no matter how unsightly the condition, it does respond to treatment.

Alopecia areata is a condition in which the hair of the scalp and face falls out in patches, leaving small bald areas. It usually occurs in early adult life. The cause is not known, but it responds to treatment.

Increase Blood Supply

Agents which increase the blood supply to the scalp do the most good. The patches are painted with iodine or turpentine. The high frequency current and the ultraviolet radiation give good results, as does granular treatment.

Premature baldness occurs mostly in males and begins about the age of 20. The causes are heredity and seborrheic dermatitis. Dermatologists tell me that sometimes something can be done to check the progress of this condition, but I still believe that resignation is the best remedy and certainly the least expensive. Most of the money that has been spent on treatment for stopping baldness has been wasted. The correction of the seborrhea may help. Tight-fitting hats are discarded. Drugs, massage and ultraviolet radiation are used for their stimulating effect.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. H.: "Being anemic, having dizzy spells at times, and also a bad case of catarrh, my wife insists the only things to eat are meat, potatoes, gravies and great big desserts consisting of pie, cake and puddings. I take the opposite view. Will you please settle this controversy? Age 59."

Answer—I do not believe that either of your views is entirely in accordance with good practice. People who are anemic and have dizzy spells naturally have a poor appetite, but they should not, for this reason, restrict their food too much. On the contrary, it seems to me the foods mentioned are too heavy, particularly in desserts. Meat, eggs, milk, green vegetables and fruits should all be emphasized in the diet.

I. E. H.: "How soon is it advisable for a person (a woman) to start doing heavy housework after an operation for hernia, also an obstruction in the intestines? I am 80 pounds overweight."

Answer—Obviously not for a long time. The hernial line of incision must heal so thoroughly that there is no danger of a recurrence. It is especially dangerous in people who are overweight. I would advise a six-month or one year waiting period after a bed rest period of a month following the operation.

C. W. W.: "I have been troubled with catarrh for many years and have not been able to cure it. A friend recently said to me, 'The only way to cure your catarrh is to go out west for a few months.' Is this true?"

Answer—Catarrh is a very general term and has little meaning. The actual condition existing is probably sinus infection in the nose. For this, dry, even climate with considerable altitude is undoubtedly beneficial. Arizona, New Mexico, parts of Utah and Nevada are the favorite climates.

SYNOPSIS
THE CHARACTERS:
BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires
GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson.
JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while
BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

YESTERDAY: Old Mr. Merrifield promises a bonus of $10,000 each to Gayle and Bill if Jeremy has proposed marriage to Gayle within a year.

CHAPTER FOUR

ECCENTRIC Mr. Benjamin W. Merrifield had ended his interview as abruptly as possible. He had given a somewhat startling ultimatum, got up and left the room.

"Whew!" breathed Bill Bailey, staring at the door that had closed behind the old millionaire.

"Yes!" Gayle nodded agreement. Both the young people were intently serious. They turned slowly to look at each other. It was not an unpleasant thing to do.

"Well," Gayle paused to swallow, "it seems as if—it looks like we—you and I—"

"It's the truth!" Now it was Bill's turn to nod agreement. They understood each other's feelings, even though they spoke incoherently. Events had indeed moved swiftly, confusingly.

"I haven't had any breakfast," Gayle suddenly remembered aloud. Bill came down to practical earth.

"I've got a dollar and forty cents. May I—look, Miss Dixon, we've got to slip off somewhere and think this out anyway. Come on."

It wasn't quite so simple as that, though. They had no more than reached the door when it opened from the other side and Weems, the Merrifield secretary, entered. Behind him were the six young ladies Bill had selected for Mr. Merrifield. They suddenly looked again as a great, even though lovely, responsibility.

"Christopher!" Bill murmured. "I forgot."

Mr. Merrifield says that you are to—ah, direct the girls, young sir. Mr. Weems began, "and I was wondering if—ah—"

"Oh yes, thank you, Mr. Weems. I—I—say, have you girls had breakfast?"

One of them, it appeared, had been so provident as to eat first. She was a cute thing in a light sweater suit of blue and white. The knit of it emphasized her excellent figure, the color of it emphasized the color of her eyes—eyes which, now, had acquired spectacles from somewhere.

"Say, you didn't have on spectacles a while ago!" Bill announced. "Now don't you go belittling girls who have to be four-eyed, Mr. Bailey!" She said it charmingly.

"A great many girls wear glasses, and a great many are ought to. I don't care what Mr. Merrifield wants done, glasses won't keep me from doing it."

"No, no, no, of course not, Miss—"

"Tempe—spelled T-e-m-p-e—pronounced in two syllables, t-e-m-tence, p-e-pe. Like that. Tempe Hyde."

"It's darling!" Gayle echoed with enthusiasm.

"Tempe Hyde," Bill was suddenly smiling. "Sounds like a little child at play."

"Are you teasing me, Mr. Bailey?" Tempe Hyde demanded. She was shorter than Bill, shorter than Gayle, so that she looked up at them. The sheer innocence of her query and her expression captivated them. Spectacles seemed somehow to be forgotten.

"I am sure that Mr. Merrifield would want the young ladies to have breakfast here in The Oaks," interposed Mr. Weems, who had been chided once already this morning for seeming lack of hospitality.

"Doublets," Bill nodded quickly. "They must be starved if Miss Hyde can eat no more, perhaps she will be patient, Mr. Weems, uh, could Miss Dixon and I have a private spot somewhere? To eat alone and, uh, make some plans?" "Oh, of course, sir. I shall inform Graham at once." The private spot turned out to be a sun porch into which spring had thrust its consciousness with happy determination. Flowers—neither Bill nor Gayle could name them—intruded on the privacy of the young couple, one vine actually laying three blue blossoms right on the table as if begging for approval. Through the foliage, morning sun etched a pattern on the white cloth. Some of the shadows were pinkish and green and golden, as if a magic lantern played through colored slides.

"Now don't you go belittling girls who have to be four-eyed, Mr. Bailey."

"Lovely!" Gayle breathed, slipping into her seat. "The Oaks is a heavenly place, Mr. Bailey!" "Look here, Miss Dixon—you're absolutely right, but we've got to think fast about all this, and not admire the scenery just now. Now, getting right down to—to—He was suddenly distracted by Gayle's eyes, deep and exquisite.

"Tacks," she suggested, a smile threatening. "Brass ones."

"Yeah, tacks. No! All right, you know what I mean. Now, what about this funny proposition, anyway? You are hired so this Jeremy Tucker can make love to you. And I'm hired to help you. Is all this clear?"

"Goodness, Mr. Bailey!" She was suddenly very serious again.

"That's exactly the way I feel. Scared. But tempted, too. Listen, I was desperate. I still am. That dollar-forty is all I possess. Honest! That's why I'm glad to eat here, free. Now look, jobs are as rare as diamonds and this funny set-up at least offers us expenses. It's respectable if we handle it right. We might even do some good. Now I don't know how you are fixed, but I'll take any sort of honest work. I'll try anything."

"I'm way ahead of you," Gayle nodded, concentrating on half a grapefruit which a servant had brought. "My fortunes also were zero."

"You think you can handle this Jeremy?" "I have never tried to make a man woo me, but—"

"Lordy, that won't be hard!" "No? Jeremy is not like you. He—he's bookish. Lacks initiative, and nerve. You certainly don't!"

"I had to act forward. When you're broke—"

"I understand. I wasn't criticizing. I—I worked a shenanigan to get at Mr. Merrifield, too."

"Then let's be good sports and have a go at this proposition."

"All right. I like it here very much, anyway."

"Say, who wouldn't! Now look, Gayle—I may call you Gayle, mayn't I?"

"Of course."

Mr. Weems came onto the sun porch then, and they turned ex-

RECLAIMED DUST BOWL

THE dust bowl has been saved from turning into desert in the near future. The farmers of the region, with the help of federal and state government experts, have reversed their own unsound practices and have cooperated in establishing new agricultural methods. The Kansas City Times recently listed some of these changes.

"Fields are left in a cloddy condition," it reported, "until the last minute before seeding now, instead of being harrowed down as formerly."

"Thousands of acres, unprofitable for wheat, have been seeded to grass, while in other areas strip farming is being practiced."

"Grain sorghums are being grown and their stalks allowed to stand as a protection during the winter and early spring."

"Contour plowing and listing are employed everywhere to conserve moisture."

"Shelter belts of trees are being used to break wind force."

The job isn't finished, and later there may be temptation to go back to the old and harmful methods, to plow too much land or turn the shelter belts into wood lots with nothing left but stumps. If we have learned the lesson of the great dust storms of 1934, however, conservation will prevail.

TIME-JUGGLING

THIS business of turning back the hands of a clock to prolong a legislative day—sometimes for weeks—has no appeal to Vice President Garner. Neither does he approve the parliamentary practice of prolonging a "day" instead of adjourning. "So far as this occupant of the chair is concerned," he says, "a day means twenty-four hours and not forty-eight or more hours. If the Senate wants to it can overrule me, but I hold that a day is twenty-four hours."

And what about daylight saving time, soon to descend upon and befuddle the American people? This variety of clock-changing is calmly accepted in many places now, after years of experience. It remains the subject of hot argument, disagreement and confusion in others. Maybe the country needs a good clock-control czar who will do for time what Landis does for baseball and Hays for the movies.

I would advise a six-month or one year waiting period after a bed rest period of a month following the operation.

C. W. W.: "I have been troubled with catarrh for many years and have not been able to cure it. A friend recently said to me, 'The only way to cure your catarrh is to go out west for a few months.' Is this true?"

Answer—Catarrh is a very general term and has little meaning. The actual condition existing is probably sinus infection in the nose. For this, dry, even climate with considerable altitude is undoubtedly beneficial. Arizona, New Mexico, parts of Utah and Nevada are the favorite climates.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Kiwanis Club voted to attend a district meeting in Columbus, May 20, at which time Tom Renick, lieutenant governor of the district, would be attending the international convention in San Antonio, Tex.

With only seven days of May gone, rainfall had reached the record-breaking total of 4.35 inches, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weatherman, reported.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Julia Archer of Laurelville and Dr. Howard T. Foster, also of Laurelville, announced their marriage which took place August 27, 1929. The bride was a teacher in the Saltcreek Township Schools and the bridegroom practiced medicine in Laurelville. He was the brother of Mrs. William Avis of Circleville.

Austin Dowden, a teacher in the schools at Junction City, spent the week end with his father, Mack W. Dowden, Wayne Township.

Dr. E. Emerich of Columbus, famous neurologist, mailed a $200 check to furnish the children's ward of the new Berger Hospital.

Loring Wittich addressed the Mens' Club of the Presbyterian Church at its regular meeting on "The European War." The Criterion quartet furnished the music.

Dr. Washington Gladden, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Columbus, was present.

THE CHARACTERS:
BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires
GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson,
JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while
BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

YESTERDAY: Old Mr. Merrifield promises a bonus of $10,000 each to Gayle and Bill if Jeremy has proposed marriage to Gayle within a year.

CHAPTER FOUR

ECCENTRIC Mr. Benjamin W. Merrifield had ended his interview as abruptly as possible. He had given a somewhat startling ultimatum, got up and left the room.

"Whew!" breathed Bill Bailey, staring at the door that had closed behind the old millionaire.

"Yes!" Gayle nodded agreement. Both the young people were intently serious. They turned slowly to look at each other. It was not an unpleasant thing to do.

"Well," Gayle paused to swallow, "it seems as if it looks like we—you and I—"

"It's the truth!" Now it was Bill's turn to nod agreement. They understood each other's feelings, even though they spoke incoherently. Events had indeed moved swiftly, confusingly.

"I haven't had any breakfast," Gayle suddenly remembered aloud. Bill came down to practical earth.

"I've got a dollar and forty cents. May I—look, Miss Dixon, we've got to slip off somewhere and think this out anyway. Come on."

It wasn't quite so simple as that, though. They had no more than reached the door when it opened from the other side and Weems, the Merrifield secretary, entered.

Behind him were the six young ladies Bill had selected for Mr. Merrifield. They suddenly loomed again as a great, even though lovely, responsibility.

"Christopher!" Bill murmured. "I forgot."

"Mr. Merrifield says that you are to—ah, direct the girls, young sir," Mr. Weems began, "and I was wondering if—ah—"

"Oh yes, thank you, Mr. Weems. I—I say, have you girls had breakfast?"

One of them, it appeared, had been so provident as to eat first. She was a cute thing in a light sweater suit of blue and white. The knot of it emphasized her excellent figure, the color of it emphasized the color of her eyes—eyes which, now, had acquired spectacles from somewhere.

"Say, you didn't have on spectacles a while ago! Bill announced. "Now don't you go belittling girls who have to be four-eyed, Mr. Bailey!" She said it charmingly.

"A great many girls wear glasses, and a great many more ought to. I don't care what Mr. Merrifield wants done, glasses won't keep me from doing it."

"No, no, no, of course not, Miss—"

"Tempe—spelled T-e-m-p-e—pronounced on two syllables, t-e-m-tem, p-e pe. Like that. Tempe Hyde."

"It's darling!" Gayle echoed with enthusiasm. "Tempe Hyde" Bill was suddenly smiling. "Sounds like a little child at play."

"Are you teasing me, Mr. Bailey?" Tempe Hyde demanded. She was shorter than Bill, shorter than Gayle, so that she looked up at them. The sheer innocence of her query and her expression captivated them. Spectacles seemed somehow to be forgotten.

"I am sure that Mr. Merrifield would want the young ladies to have breakfast here in 'The Oaks.' Interposed Mr. Weems, who had been chided once already this morning for seeming lack of hospitality.

"Doubtless," Bill nodded quickly. "They must be starved. If Miss Hyde can eat no more, perhaps she will be patient. Mr. Weems, uh, could Miss Dixon and I have a private spot somewhere? To eat alone and, uh, make some plans?"

"Now don't you go belittling girls who have to be four-eyed, Mr. Bailey."

"Oh, of course, sir. I shall inform Graham at once."

The private spot turned out to be a sun porch into which spring had thrust its consciousness with happy determination. Flowers—neither Bill nor Gayle could name them—intruded on the privacy of the young couple, one vine actually laying three blue blossoms right on the table as if begging for approval. Through the foliage, morning sun etched a pattern on the white cloth. Some of the shadows were pinkish and green and golden, as if a magic lantern played through colored slides.

"Lovely!" Gayle breathed, slipping into her seat. "The Oaks is a heavenly place, Mr. Bailey!"

"Look here, Miss Dixon—you're absolutely right, but we've got to think fast about all this, and not admire the scenery just now. Now, getting right down to—to—" He was suddenly distracted by Gayle's eyes, deep and exquisite.

"Tacks," she suggested, a smile threatening. "Brass ones."

"Yeah, tacks. No! All right, you know what I mean. Now, what about this funny proposition, anyway? You are hired so this Jeremy Tucker can make love to you. And I'm hired to help you. Is all this clear?"

"Goodness, Mr. Bailey!" She was suddenly very serious again. "That's exactly the way I feel. Scared. But tempted, too. Listen, I was desperate. I still am. That dollar-forty is all I possess. Honest! That's why I'm glad to eat here, free. Now look, jobs are as rare as diamonds and this funny set-up at least offers us expenses. It's respectable if we handle it right. We might even do some good. Now I don't know how you are fixed, but I'll take any sort of honest work. I'll try anything."

"I'm way ahead of you," Gayle nodded, concentrating on half a grapefruit which a servant had brought. "My fortunes also were zero."

"You think you can handle this Jeremy?"

"I have never tried to make a man woo me, but—" "Lordy, that won't be hard!"

"No? Jeremy is not like you. He—he's bookish. Lacks initiative, and nerve. You certainly don't!"

"I had to act forward. When you're broke—"

"I understand. I wasn't criticizing. I—I worked a shenanigan to get at Mr. Merrifield, too."

"Then let's be good sports and have a go at this proposition."

"All right. I like it here very much, anyway."

"Say, who wouldn't! Now look, Gayle—I may call you Gayle, mayn't I?"

"Of course."

Mr. Weems came onto the sun porch then, and they turned expectantly to the elderly secretary. "Mr. Merrifield directs me to act as your host this morning, until he has had a brief rest," he began, kindly. "He expects you to live right here. This is a very large mansion. Many rooms. You must choose one you like best, and then cars will be ready for you to go after your things."

Gayle paused before a bite of waffle.

"You mean—we—I am to live here? Actually live at 'The Oaks'?"

"Oh, of course, miss. That is, if you can put up with—"

"Oh, Mr. Weems! This is wonderful! . . . The Oaks! Everybody knows about The Oaks. It's a castle almost. Better than a castle, really. This is one of the finest estates in America, people say."

Mr. Weems smiled a little. "It is comfortable, even luxurious. But life here is quiet."

"We'll correct that," Bill Bailey put in.

"Mr. Merrifield has earned his wealth. He has taken quite a fancy to both you young people, I may say. I do hope you can manage to bring him some happiness. We—he is not as young as he once was, and—"

The old fellow was almost pleading. Into his voice had crept something of yearning, something personal and intimate, and sweet. Bill swallowed, staring up at him respectfully. Gayle reached to touch his wrinkled old hand ever so gently as she spoke.

"Mr. Weems," she almost whispered it, "we'll do everything! It's like a fairy tale in a way, but I love it! The Oaks can be gay again if every one will help make it so. Gay like it used to be. Would you love that?"

Reminiscence touched his old eyes then. Plainly he was about to forgive Gayle Dixon in his heart for being young and pretty—the first "faults" with which she had struck him. He stared off vacantly through the sun-gilded vine, remembering.

"It is most extraordinary," he mumbled, finally, to himself. Then—"I shall await you in the main parlor."

When he had gone, Bill breathed another "Whew! Better get right back to those brass tacks before we both wake up. Now we must let him host us. It's a part of our duty here. You can do it easy, but I've got six other damsels on my hands, too, and—"

Gayle interrupted. "I beg your pardon, Mr. Bailey, but I am not on your hands. I was hired before you even came, and I can operate independently!"

Bill smiled broadly, boyishly, enjoying her eyes again.

"You're on my hands, even so," he said. "For as long as I can possibly keep you there!"

Theme of Lavender, Lace Feature Class Banquet

Splendid Talk On "Mother's Day" Heard

Eighty-two guests were served at tables decorated with May baskets of springflowers Monday when the annual banquet of Mrs. George Marion's class of the Methodist Church was held in the church social room.

The lavender and lace of the decorative theme was continued in the tall candles in crystal holders and the artistic programs at each cover. Tiny congeries of pansies were presented each person, the guests of the members also receiving small white blossom pins of costume jewelry.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. C. F. Bowman, a delicious two course dinner was served.

Mrs. Herman Hill, class president, welcomed the guests with Mrs. R. F. Lilly responding, her brief talk including an appropriate poem. Following the introductions of the guests, Miss Ruth Stout read the class history written and read by Mrs. Earl Wittmer of Marion at the twenty-fifth anniversary tea of the class.

Miss Eloise Hilyard in "A Tribute to Mothers" read several beautiful passages from the Bible.

Mrs. William T. Ulm's talk concerned "Mother's Day" and in it she contrasted the old fashioned and the modern mothers, their methods of caring for children in the past, with the ones used now. She considered the older mothers stronger in discipline, the modern ones more conscious of the health of their children. In a word she said it seemed to be "sulphur and molasses in the past and vitamins in the present."

She mentioned that children were read to more in the past, while movies now take the place of reading to great extent.

Mrs. Ulm's talk was interesting and full of humorous little remarks, holding the close attention of the group throughout.

Mrs. Frank Kline sang two solos; Mrs. Ervin Leist playing her piano accompaniments.

The closing number, "The Fatal Quest", a play presented by Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Warren Harmon and Mrs. Ross Hamilton, was unusually amusing, the audience roaring with laughter throughout the three brief acts.

Mrs. George E. Gerhardt served as scene-shifter for the play, Mrs. Virgil M. Cress and Mrs. Myron T. Johnson, as curtains.

The out-of-town guests included Mrs. Emmett Brown, Lancaster, and Mrs. Harold McCord, Washington C. H., former class members; Mrs. Thomas Acord, Ashville; Mrs. Allie Strate, Roseville; Miss Edna Larson, Grinnell, Ia.; Mrs. I. W. Ferguson, Lockbourne; Mrs. M. C. Balentine, Kingston; Mrs. Troy R. McPherson of near Darbyville; Mrs. Sam C. Elsea, Jacksonville; Mrs. T. E. Mettler, Laurelville; Mrs. Robert Edge, Washington C. H.; Mrs. Glenn Hamilton, Wayne Township; Mrs. B. W. Young, Pickaway Township, and Mrs. J. H. Claibourne, Lynchburg.

Miss Ruth Stout, chairman of the decorating committee, made the lovely program favors. Her committee included Mrs. L. S. Lyle, Mrs. Gerhardt, Miss Wilma Phebus and Mrs. Deming.

Miss Elizabeth Tolbert arranged the program with the assistance of Miss Peggy Parks and Mrs. Leist.

Mrs. M. T. Johnson headed the food committee made up of Mrs. Harmon and Mrs. Byron Eby.

Birthday Anniversaries

Mrs. Jacob Peters and daughter, Sophie, of near Stoutsville entertained at a family dinner, Sunday, complimenting Mr. Peters who celebrated his birthday anniversary Saturday.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Simon Peters and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kreiger of Stoutsville; Mr. and

Lutheran Society Enjoys Banquet, Splendid Talk

The Von Bora Society of Trinity Lutheran Church entertained 125 members and guests at a banquet Monday in the parish house, the af- fair being a joint observance of Mother's Day and India Lace Day. All Women's societies of the American Lutheran Church were request- ed to hold this joint celebration this year.

The tables set in a hollow square were lighted with green and white candles, tall five branch candelabra being placed at each corner.

Spring flowers were placed at in- tervals down the center of the tables, the brown covers of the programs, lace trimmed, complet- ing the decorative idea.

In the center of the square, was a small reproduction of a low cast home of India, the sides open to reveal the miniature reproductions of the primitive furniture. Patricia Sue Brown, Mary Louise Beck and Ruth Troutman in na- tive dress were engaged in various occupations of the household.

Miss Ruth Oberdorfer, a second year student of Capital Univer- sity, Columbus, was guest speaker and talked on "The Missionary Mother and the Mother of India." Miss Oberdorfer, who was born in Butler, Pa., went to India with her missionary parents when she was three weeks old, living there until she was ready for college. She visited in the states twice dur- ing this time, was educated in the missionary school and graduated there. Miss Oberdorfer is study- ing medical technology at the uni- versity.

The program opened with group singing of "O Motherhood, the Beautiful", Mrs. H. M. Crites then welcoming the guests. Mrs. John Carter of near Williamsport re- sponded. A brief history of the lace school was read by Miss Cath- erine Fischer. Miss Ethel Stein read a poem, "The Tapestry Weavers."

"A Tribute to Mothers" was read by Mrs. Elmer Wolf, Miss Dorothy Glenn played two accom- panied solos, "Beautiful Ohio" and "The Blue Danube." The two se- lections sung by the Von Bora quartet were "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Will You Remem- ber." The quartet includes, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. Walter Heise and Mrs. Carl Leist.

Continuing an annual custom, the oldest and youngest mothers were presented gifts. Mrs. Ellen Stein, 88, was honored as the old- est, and Mrs. John Lindsay as the youngest. Mrs. Minnie DeBolt re- ceived a gift as a mother past 80.

Mrs. Frank Webbe, president of the society, served as general chairman. The food committee for the delicious banquet included Miss Mary Hefner and Mrs. Fred Brown as co-chairmen, Miss Flo- ra Palm, Mrs. Orrin Brown, Mrs. Lawrence Fox, Miss Susie Wilson, Mrs. Orville Marion and Miss Lot- tie Walters.

Properly Planting Pole Lima Beans

To plant pole lima beans prop- erly, one should first plant the pole. While the pole will undoubtedly be hardy, the pole lima beans are much less hardy than bush lima beans and therefore should not be planted until all danger of a late frost has passed. Although pole lima beans mature later than

Pole limas should be planted in hills composed of a rich compost or manure covered over with sev- eral inches of soil. As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, first plant the pole in the center of each hill. Use poles eight to 12 feet long, setting them eighteen inches into the ground. Plant six or eight beans around the pole, as illustrated. Plant the beans on edge, eyes down. Later thin out the plants, leaving only three or four of the strongest.

If the plants appear to be mak- ing more growth than pods later in the season, cut off the top of the plant at the top of the pole in order to divert the plant's energy into the production of pods.

GARDEN HINTS

A thick stand of grass is the best defense against weeds because weeds cannot gain a foothold or long survive where grass is thick and luxuriant.

While cactus will grow else- where and under many conditions there is a soil mixture that is best suited to their culture in the

This is the season when weeding counts most because the perennial weeds can easily be recognized, are small and easily removed, and have had no chance to produce seeds.

The usual reason for house plants growing well but not bloom- ing too continuously. If a plant does not become pot-bound or have a rest occasionally, it may keep on growing leaves and never stop to bloom.

Theme of Lavender, Lace Feature Class Banquet

Splendid Talk On "Mother's Day" Heard

Eighty-two guests were served at tables decorated with May baskets of springflowers Monday when the annual banquet of Mrs. George Marion's class of the Methodist Church was held in the church social room.

The lavender and lace of the decorative theme was continued in the tall candles in crystal holders and the artistic programs at each cover. Tiny bouquets of pansies were presented each person, the guests of the members also receiving small white blossom pins of costume jewelry.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. C. F. Bowman, a delicious two course dinner was served.

Mrs. Herman Hill, class president, welcomed the guests with Mrs. R. F. Lilly responding, her brief talk including an appropriate poem. Following the introductions of the guests, Miss Ruth Stout read the class history written and read by Mrs. Earl Wittmer of Marion at the twenty-fifth anniversary tea of the class.

Miss Eloise Hilyard in "A Tribute to Mothers" read several beautiful passages from the Bible.

Mrs. William T. Ulin's talk concerned "Mother's Day" and in it she contrasted the old fashioned and the modern mothers, their methods of caring for children in the past, with the ones used now. She considered the older mothers stronger in discipline, the modern ones more conscious of the health of their children. In a word she said it seemed to be "sulphur and molasses in the past and vitamins in the present."

She mentioned that children were read to more in the past, while movies now take the place of reading to great extent.

Mrs. Ulin's talk was interesting and full of humorous little remarks, holding the close attention of the group throughout.

Mrs. Frank Kline sang two solos, Mrs. Ervin Leist playing her piano accompaniments.

Mack E. Noggle entertained the group with flower pictures in color, and beautiful scenes in and around Circleville, through all stressing the fact that "the things that are commonplace are things that are beautiful."

The closing number, "The Fatal Quest", a play presented by Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Warren Harmon and Mrs. Ross Hamilton, was unusually amusing, the audience roaring with laughter throughout the three brief acts.

Mrs. George E. Gerhardt served as scene-shifter for the play, Mrs. Virgil M. Cress and Mrs. Myron T. Johnson, as curtains.

The out-of-town guests included Mrs. Emmett Brown, Lancaster, and Mrs. Harold McCord, Washington C. H., former class members; Mrs. Thomas Acord, Ashville; Mrs. Allie Strate, Roseville; Miss Edna Larson, Grinnell, Ia.; Mrs. I. W. Ferguson, Lockbourne; Mrs. M. C. Balentine, Kingston; Mrs. Troy R. McPherson of near Darbyville; Mrs. Sam C. Elisea, Jacksonville; Mrs. T. E. Mettler, Laurelville; Mrs. Robert Edge, Washington C. H.; Mrs. Glenn Hamilton, Wayne Township; Mrs. B. W. Young, Pickaway Township; and Mrs. J. H. Claibourne, Lynchburg.

Miss Ruth Stout, chairman of the decorating committee, made the lovely program favors. Her committee included Mrs. L. S. Lytle, Mrs. Gerhardt, Miss Wilma Phebus and Mrs. Deming.

Miss Elizabeth Tolbert arranged the program with the assistance of Miss Peggy Parks and Mrs. Leist. Mrs. M. T. Johnson headed the food committee made up of Mrs. Harmon and Mrs. Byron Eby.

The membership committee was Mrs. Dwight Steele, chairman, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Dan McClain.

Birthdays were celebrated by Mrs. Jacob Peters and daughter, Sophie, of near Stoutsville, Sunday, complimenting Mr. Peters who celebrated his birthday anniversary Saturday.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Simon Peters and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kreiger of Stoutsville; Mr. and

Today's Fashion

A SMART suit complemented by the right accessories, according to the occasion, wins compliments for the wearer. Here are some neces-saries for general daytime wear. The white crepe blouse is pin-tuck-ed from a high shoulder yoke. The square collar has a hand-embroid-ered monogram center front. The dark brown gabardine bag uses buttons of patent leather as a bor-der and for the flap. The handle is patent leather. The step-in pump, most popular of all shoes, is of gab-ardine with patent. The walled last accentuates the contrast trim.

High School has chosen for its class play. It will be presented Thursday, May 9, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium. Miss Vir-ginia Hinds of the school faculty will direct the production.

The scene is laid in a private girls' school, and the central char-acter is a girl who is continually getting in "hot water" with the head of the school.

The play features a cast with Miss Virginia Bell in the leading roll and includes the Misses Jean List, Mary Jane Rader, Jeanne Thacher, Naomi Hulse, Jane Hulse, Maxine Finley, Ruth Casto, Mary Belle Goodman, Jack Thompson, Daniel Grant, Paul Kennedy, Leroy Newton and Willard Bumgarner.

Class Entertained

Miss Violet Justice, teacher in the Junior department of the Methodist Sunday school, enter-tained her class at a theatre party Sunday afternoon. After seeing "Pinocchio" at the Grand Theatre, Miss Justice treated the class members to light refresh-ments.

Those enjoying the afternoon were June Lannan, Eileen May-nard, Beverly Kline, Marie Work-man, Amelia Lemley, Mary Wil-son, Eloise Mogan, Donna Mogan, and Maxine Hetzler.

Presbyterian Class Banquet

The Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church will sponsor a Mother's Day Banquet for all women of the congregation and their guests Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the social room. Reservations should be made as early as possible with Mrs. G. I. Nickerson or Mrs. B. T. Hedges.

Washington Township PTA
The Parent-Teacher Association of Washington Township will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the audi-torium for the May session, which has been set forward one week. The PTA fund will take care of the refreshments for the meeting.

Westminster Circle
The Westminster Circle of the Presbyterian Church will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home of Miss Mary Lou Kochheiser, West Franklin Street.

Mrs. Allie Strate of Roseville is making an extended visit with her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Bowman, of North Pickaway Street.

Lutheran Society Enjoys Banquet, Splendid Talk

The Von Bora Society of Trinity Lutheran Church entertained 125 members and guests at a banquet Monday in the parish house, the af-fair being a joint observance of Mother's Day and India Lase Day. All Women's societies of the American Lutheran Church were request-ed to hold this joint celebration this year.

The tables set in a hollow square were lighted with green and white candles, tall five branch candelabra being placed at each corner. Spring flowers were placed at in-tervals down the center of the tables, the brown covers of the programs, lace trimmed, complet-ing the decorative idea.

In the center of the square, was a small reproduction of a low cast home of India, the sides open to reveal the miniature reproductions of the primitive furniture. Patricia Sue Brown, Mary Louise Beck and Ruth Troutman in na-tive dress were engaged in various occupations of the household.

Miss Ruth Oberdorfer, a second year student of Capital Univer-sity, Columbus, was guest speaker and talked on "The Missionary Mother and the Mother of India." Miss Oberdorfer, who was born in Butler, Pa., went to India with her missionary parents when she was three weeks old, living there until she was ready for college. She visited in the states twice dur-ing this time, was educated in the missionary school and graduated there. Miss Oberdorfer is study-ing medical technology at the uni-versity.

From her own experiences, she told of the life in her home and contrasted the homelife of the In-dian people. Miss Oberdorfer an-swered many questions asked at the close of her informal talk.

A collection was taken for the lace school which the Lutheran church supports in India.

The program opened with group singing of "O Motherhood, the Beautiful", Mrs. H. M. Crites then welcoming the guests. Mrs. John Carter of near Williamsport re-sponded. A brief history of the lace school was read by Miss Cath-erine Fischer. Miss Ethel Stein read a poem, "The Tapestry Weavers."

"A Tribute to Mothers" was read by Mrs. Elmer Wolf. Miss Dorothy Glenn played two accom-panying solos, "Beautiful Ohio" and "The Blue Danube." The two se-lections sung by the Von Bora quartet were "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Will You Remem-ber." The quartet includes, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. Walter Heise and Mrs. Carl Leist.

Continuing an annual custom, the oldest and youngest mothers were presented gifts. Mrs. Ellen Stein, 88, was honored as the oldest, and Mrs. John Lindsay as the youngest. Mrs. Minnie DeBolt re-ceived a gift as a mother past 80.

Mrs. Frank Webb, president of the society, served as general chairman. The food committee for the delicious banquet included Miss Mary Heffner and Mrs. Fred Brown as co-chairmen, Miss Flo-ra Palm, Mrs. Orrin Brown, Mrs. Lawrence Fox, Miss Susie Wilson, Mrs. Orville Marion and Miss Lot-tie Walters.

Miss Florence Hoffman headed the dining room and decorating committee comprised of Miss Ethel Stein, Miss Mary Weffler, Mrs. Elmer Wolf, Mrs. James Stout, Mrs. Amos Palm, Mrs. Emerson Martin, Mrs. Dorothy Wilkinson, Mrs. L. B. Davison, Mrs. Ralph Ward and Mrs. Erma Gehres.

Properly Planting Pole Lima Beans

To plant pole lima beans prop-erly, one should first plant the pole. While the pole will undoubtedly be hardy, the pole lima beans are much less hardy than bush lima beans and therefore should not be planted until all danger of a late frost has passed. Although pole lima beans mature later than the bush variety, they are more prolific.

Pole limas should be planted in hills composed of a rich compost or manure covered over with sev-eral inches of soil. As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, first plant the pole in the center of each hill. Use poles eight to 12 feet long, setting them eighteen inches into the ground. Plant six or eight beans around the pole, as illustrated. Plant the beans on edge, eyes down. Later thin out the plants, leaving only three or four of the strongest.

If the plants appear to be mak-ing more growth than pods later in the season, cut off the top of the plant at the top of the pole in order to divert the plant's energy into the production of pods.

GARDEN HINTS

Gallahadion Faces Rigid Test in Saturday Race

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 7—The talk today is that Saturday's Preakness will prove whether or not Bimelech is the great colt everybody thought he was before the disastrous Kentucky Derby... The Preakness distance of a mile and three sixteenths will be more to Bimelech's liking... and those who have great faith in the Bradley horse believe that Gallahadion who won the Derby is more or less of a flash in the pan... and in the Preakness Gallahadion will face a much tougher field of competitors including some who were frightened out of the Derby by the mere mention of the name Bimelech... Col Bradley may decide to use Don Meade as jockey in the Preakness in place of Fred Smith who was up on Bimelech in the Derby... now that Bimelech has been stripped of his glamor the Preakness will be crowded by at least 14 starters, according to present indications.

Gene Sarazen, the grizzled veteran of the golf courses, should feel right at home in this year's $5,000 Goodall round robin at Fresh Meadow Country Club in Flushing from May 16 to 19... Sarazen was pro at Fresh Meadow from 1925 to 1930... one of his greatest victories was scored on the Fresh Meadow course in 1932... he shot a 66, nothing less than sensational, in the final round in the 1932 Open and won the National Title... Sarazen is not letting his 38 years stand in the way of further competition... He feels he's still good for three more years of tournament golf.

They'll have to print the sports pages longer if the Major League teams continue competing with each other on their ability to get the greatest number of players into a game... Frankie Frisch gave the printers a workout by getting 24 names into the box score at Pittsburgh yesterday... Boston used up 16... the total of 40 for the two teams set a new Major League record.

St. Louis was a strange contrast for the Daffiness boys from Brooklyn yesterday... in Brooklyn virtually the entire population goes quietly berserk after jamming itself into Ebbets Field to watch the Dodgers play... in St. Louis the Dodgers attracted a grand total of 2,267 paying fans yesterday.

KASEYS MOVING NEAR TOP RUNG IN ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, May 7—Kansas City was only a half-game out of first place in the American Association today, thanks to a 4 to 3, 12-inning victory over the Toledo Mudhens.

The Blues pushed across a run in the twelfth frame after the Mudhens had tied it up at three all in the ninth.

Minneapolis, however, remained in first place despite a 4 to 3 loss to Louisville. Southpaw Wes Flowers, although touched for 12 hits, went the route for the Colonels, who collected only nine safeties.

In the only other game played, St. Paul swamped Indianapolis, 16 to 4, as four Indian pitchers failed to halt the Saint attack.

The game between Columbus and Milwaukee at the latter city was played as part of a Sunday doubleheader.

WOLVES TO LOSE KROMER FROM 1940 GRID ELEVEN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 7—No longer will Michigan's "touchdown twins"—Paul Kromer and Tommy Harmon—terrorize Western Conference gridiron circles.

Ranked as the nation's most outstanding scoring threats in 1938, the duo was broken up today as Kromer, "pistol" halfback from Lorain, O., retired from active competition due to a knee injury sustained in the 1939 opener against Michigan State.

DEMARET LIKES SCENE OF NATIONAL OPEN TOURNEY

CLEVELAND, May 7—Jimmy Demaret today looked over his 37-33-70 card scored yesterday over the Canterbury Club layout, scene of the National Open Golf championship June 6-8, and said that he hoped the course would not be converted into a tricky one for the meet. He left for New York and will return later in the month as the favorite to win the Open.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS
HEROES—Hank Greenberg, Detroit outfielder, whose double enabled the Tigers to beat the Yankees; Billy Herman, Chicago second baseman, whose eleventh inning homer gave the Cubs a one-run edge of the Philadelphia Phillies.

GOATS—Johnny Murphy, Yankee pitcher, whose wildness in the ninth paved the way for the Tigers victory; Oadis Swigart, Pittsburgh pitcher, who failed in relief as Boston won a 12 inning contest.

YAWKEY'S HOPES FOR TITLE MAY BECOME REALITY

By Ed Kiely
NEW YORK, May 7—If the New York Yankees continue to fall apart, if Bob Feller fails to win 20 games, if the Boston Red Sox keep up their heavy hitting—what he knows but that Tom Yawkey may see his expensive dream of winning a pennant become a reality.

Over the last few years, Yawkey, youthful millionaire Boston owner, has spared no expense in an attempt to collect a team to "stop the Yankees." Until this year, he has paid a high price for failure. But now fate is beginning to look more kindly.

Today Yawkey's Gold Sox rested in first place in the American League as a result of an 8 to 5 triumph over the second-place Cleveland Indians. Jimmy Foxx paced the Sox bombardment with his sixth homer of the season.

Elsewhere in the junior circuit the New York Yankees suffered another reversal at the hands of the Detroit Tigers. Big Hank Greenberg snapped out of a slump, to clout three hits, one a homer, as the Tigers won 6 to 4. The Philadelphia Athletics pushed the Chicago White Sox deeper into the cellar with a 3 to 2 triumph and the St. Louis Browns drubbed the Washington Senators, 11 to 9.

In the National League, the amazing Brooklyn Dodgers continued their incredible pace of 11 wins in 12 starts, with a 6 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.
Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin's nine-hit twirling and Dolph Camilli's big bat furnished the Flatbushers' second straight success over the ex-gas house gang.

The Cincinnati Reds continued to keep pace with their league-leading rivals by routing the New York Giants, 9 to 1. Paul Dean made his first appearance of the year for losers when he replaced losing Pitcher Harry Gumbert in the late innings. Gene Thompson hurled for the Reds.

Billy Herman's homer gave the Chicago Cubs a 5 to 4 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies and Boston whipped Pittsburgh, 10 to 7, in a 12 inning struggle.

Gallahadion Faces Rigid Test in Saturday Race

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 7—The talk today is that Saturday's Preakness will prove whether or not Bimelech is the great colt everybody thought he was before the disastrous Kentucky Derby... the Preakness distance of a mile and three sixteenths will be more to Bime-lech's liking... and those who have great faith in the Bradley horse believe that Gallahadion who won the Derby is more or less of a flash in the pan... and in the Preakness Gallahadion will face a much tougher field of competitors including some who were frightened out of the Derby by the mere mention of the name Bime-lech... Col Bradley may decide to use Don Meade as jockey in the Preakness in place of Fred Smith who was up on Bimelech in the Derby... now that Bimelech has been stripped of his glamor the Preakness will be crowded by at least 14 starters, according to present indications.

Gene Sarazen, the grizzled veteran of the golf courses, should feel right at home in this year's $5,000 Goodall round robin at Fresh Meadow Country Club in Flushing from May 16 to 19...
Sarazen was pro at Fresh Meadow from 1925 to 1930... one of his greatest victories was scored on the Fresh Meadow course in 1932... he shot a 66, nothing less than sensational, in the final round in the 1932 Open and won the National Title... Sarazen is not letting his 38 years stand in the way of further competition

... He feels he's still good for three more years of tournament golf.

They'll have to print the sports pages longer if the Major League teams continue competing with each other on their ability to get the greatest number of players into a game... Frankie Frisch gave the printers a workout by getting 24 names into the box score at Pittsburgh yesterday...
Boston used up 16... the total of 40 for the two teams set a new Major league record.

St. Louis was a strange contrast for the Daffiness boys from Brooklyn yesterday... in Brooklyn virtually the entire population goes quietly berserk after jamming itself into Ebbets Field to watch the Dodgers play... in St.
Louis the Dodgers attracted a grand total of 2,267 paying fans yesterday.

VITT TO USE NAYMICK AGAINST BOSTON TEAM

BOSTON, May 7—Manager Oscar Vitt figured on sending Rookie Mike Naymick to pitch the Cleveland Indians back into first place in the American League today in the final game of a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox. Grove was the likely Sox starter.

The Sox took top spot yesterday when they blasted Willis Hud-lin and Johnny Humphries from the mound in a fourth inning attack good for six runs.

The Indians collected 11 hits and threatened in the sixth, but Manager Joe Cronin sent Jack Wilson in for Emerson Dickson and the Tribe threat was throttled.

Ben Chapman homered for the Indians with Jimmy Foxx hitting number 6 for the Yawkey hired hands.

Cleveland open a series with the Yankees in New York tomorrow.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS
HEROES — Hank Greenberg,
Detroit outfielder, whose double enabled the Tigers to beat the Yankees; Billy Herman, Chicago second baseman, whose eleventh inning homer gave the Cubs a one-run edge of the Philadelphia Phi-lies.

GOATS—Johnny Murphy, Yankee pitcher, whose wildness in the ninth paved the way for the Tigers victory; Oadis Swigart, Pittsburgh pitcher, who failed in relief as Boston won a 12 inning contest.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 7—
No longer will Michigan's "touchdown twins"—Paul Kromer and Tommy Harmon—terrorize Western Conference gridiron circles.

Ranked as the nation's most outstanding scoring threats in 1938, the duo was broken up today as Kromer, "pistol" halfback from Lorain, O., retired from active competition due to a knee injury sustained in the 1939 opener against Michigan State.

DEMARET LIKES SCENE OF NATIONAL OPEN TOURNEY

CLEVELAND, May 7—Jimmy Demaret today looked over his 37-33-70 card scored yesterday over the Canterbury Club layout, scene of the National Open Golf championship June 6-8, and said that he hoped the course would not be converted into a tricky one for the meet. He left for New York and will return later in the month as the favorite to win the Open.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS

Detroit outfielder, whose double

CINCINNATI, May 7—Either
Jim Turner or Johnny "No-hit" Vander Meer was expected to take the mound for the Cincinnati Reds today as they attempted to make it three straight over the New York Giants.

Behind the five-hit pitching of Gene (Junior) Thompson, the Red-legs annihilated the Giants yesterday, 9 to 1, to remain a game and a half behind the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers.

CIRCLEVILLE'S NEW FIRE ENGINE ARRIVES; STATE CONDUCTS TESTS

THREE PUMPERS AVAILABLE FOR LOCAL SERVICE

Bureau Of Inspection At Work Examining New Equipment

$3,800 PAID FOR OUTFIT

500 Gallons Of Water May Be Handled In Minute By Modern Unit

The city's new fire engine, ordered from the Seagrave Corporation, Columbus, arrived in Circleville Monday afternoon and was being given its final State Board of Underwriters' test Tuesday before the Ohio Inspection Bureau.

The test consists of operating the pump at full capacity for two hours at 150 pounds pressure, at half capacity for one-half hour at 200 pounds pressure and at one third capacity for one-half hour at 250 pounds pressure. The pump is capable of handling 500 gallons of water a minute.

The purchase of the new truck will give Circleville and the surrounding community the greatest fire protection it has ever had, with three pump engines and a hose cart available.

The new truck is equipped with a 95-horse power Mercury motor and is capable of traveling 68 miles an hour. In many respects it resembles the Township fire truck previously purchased from the Seagrave Corporation. It differs from the Township truck in that it has two hose connections, one on each side, a spare tire and wheel, two fire axes instead of one, a big size 100 siren, oversize tires, an extra tool box and all aluminum ladders. It carries a 30-foot extension ladder, a 12-foot roof ladder and a 10-foot folding ladder, and is equipped with a 150-gallon booster tank.

R. H. McKittrick, engineer for the Seagrave Corporation who came to Circleville with the $3,800 truck, stated that it carried the latest in fire-fighting equipment.

The truck was purchased through a bond issue voted by council.

MERCURY SOARS TO 88 DEGREES

Spring Arrives Finally; Possible Showers On Wednesday Forecast

Spring which has been just around the corner for more than a month, stepped boldly into view Monday afternoon as the temperature climbed to 88 degrees, the highest temperature reading so far this year.

The highest temperature previous to Monday was recorded on April 4, when the thermometer reached 78 degrees. On May 6, 1939 the Weather Bureau reported the temperature at 82 degrees. Cooler weather with possible showers is predicted for Wednesday.

SHUPE JOINS GAS CO.

Malcolm Shupe of Laurelville has been employed in the service department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to fill a vacancy left by the promotion of Jack Heeter to the sales department.

EMPLOYMENT IN OHIO OFF LITTLE DURING MARCH

COLUMBUS, May 7—Ohio industrial employment declined less than one percent in March, it is reported by Ohio State University's bureau of business research.

An increase of three percent in non-manufacturing and a slight gain, in construction, less than one percent, were offset by the one percent decline in manufacturing.

Cincinnati alone reported March improvement, amounting to two percent. Toledo had a decline of one percent, and Youngstown had a loss of six percent from February.

CIRCLEVILLE AUTOIST, 31, FACES DRIVING CHARGE

O. S. U. STUDENTS FIND F. D. WOULD LOSE RACE

COLUMBUS, May 7—President Roosevelt will not be elected to a third term even if he secures the Democratic nomination, a poll of Ohio State University students indicated today.

The poll, conducted by the Lantern, campus newspaper, showed that 40 percent of those students questioned preferred return of the Republican party to power while 36.6 percent favored retention of the Democratic party with 28.4 percent undecided.

If President Roosevelt is nominated for a third term, 60 percent of those polled said they would not vote for him; 25 percent answered in the affirmative, while 25 percent were undecided.

COURT TERM OPENS

A journal entry in the Common Pleas Court Monday officially opened the court's May term. Those present were Meeker Terwilliger, judge of the Common Pleas Court, Robert Adkins, court bailiff and deputy sheriff, representing Charles H. Radcliff, sheriff, and J. M. Borror, jury commissioner.

WIFE OF FORMER MINISTER DIES; RITES TUESDAY

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday in Columbus with cremation following for Mrs. Mary Hindman Beckes, wife of C. Boyd Beckes, of Columbus, who died Sunday after an illness of several years.

Mr. Beckes is a former Presbyterian Church pastor, having served the Circleville church some years ago.

Mrs. Beckes leaves her husband; a son, Howard, who is director of music in the Steubenville schools; a sister and two brothers.

THREE PUMPERS AVAILABLE FOR LOCAL SERVICE

500 Gallons Of Water May Be Handled In Minute By Modern Unit

The city's new fire engine, ordered from the Seagrave Corporation, Columbus, arrived in Circleville Monday afternoon and was being given its final State Board of Underwriters' test Tuesday before the Ohio Inspection Bureau.

The test consists of operating the pump at full capacity for two hours at 150 pounds pressure, at half capacity for one-half hour at 200 pounds pressure and at one third capacity for one-half hour at 250 pounds pressure. The pump is capable of handling 500 gallons of water a minute.

The purchase of the new truck will give Circleville and the surrounding community the greatest fire protection it has ever had, with three pump engines and a hose cart available.

The new truck is equipped with a 95-horse power Mercury motor and is capable of traveling 68 miles an hour. In many respects it resembles the Township fire truck previously purchased from the Seagrave Corporation. It differs from the Township truck in that it has two hose connections, one on each side, a spare

Fighter at 71

BACK in uniform is Gen. Paul Frederic Rollet, 71, who for 46 years has been fighting for France on many fronts. Retired in 1937 because of age, Rollet has demanded a return to war duty. He is a year younger than Gen. Maxime Weygand, who was recalled from retirement for duty in the Near East.

tire and wheel, two fire axes instead of one, a big size $100 siren, oversize tires, an extra tool box and all aluminum ladders. It carries a 30-foot extension ladder, a 12-foot roof ladder and a 10-foot folding ladder, and is equipped with a 150-gallon booster tank.

R. H. McKittrick, engineer for the Seagrave Corporation who came to Circleville with the $3,800 truck, stated that it carried the latest in fire-fighting equipment.

The truck was purchased through a bond issue voted by council.

MERCURY SOARS TO 88 DEGREES

Spring Arrives Finally; Possible Showers On Wednesday Forecast

Spring which has been just around the corner for more than a month, stepped boldly into view Monday afternoon as the temperature climbed to 88 degrees, the highest temperature reading so far this year.

The highest temperature previous to Monday was recorded on April 4, when the thermometer reached 78 degrees. On May 6, 1939 the Weather Bureau reported the temperature at 82 degrees. Cooler weather with possible showers is predicted for Wednesday.

SUPE JOINS GAS CO.

Malcolm Supe of Laurelville has been employed in the service department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to fill a vacancy left by the promotion of Jack Heeter to the sales department.

EMPLOYMENT IN OHIO OFF LITTLE DURING MARCH

COLUMBUS, May 7—Ohio industrial employment declined less one percent in March, it is reported by Ohio State University's bureau of business research.

An increase of three percent in non-manufacturing and a slight gain, in construction, less than one percent, were offset by the one percent decline in manufacturing.

Five of the state's chief cities reported March declines of less than one percent—Akron, Canton, Cleveland, Columbus and Dayton. Cincinnati alone reported March improvement, amounting to two percent. Toledo had a decline of one percent, and Youngstown had a loss of six percent from February.

CIRCLEVILLE AUTOIST, 31, FACES DRIVING CHARGE

O. S. U. STUDENTS FIND F. D. WOULD LOSE RACE

COLUMBUS, May 7—President Roosevelt will not be elected to a third term even if he secures the Democratic nomination, a poll of Ohio State University students indicated today.

The poll, conducted by the Lantern, campus newspaper, showed that 40 percent of those students questioned preferred return of the Republican party to power while 36.6 percent favored retention of the Democratic party with 28.4 percent undecided.

If President Roosevelt is nominated for a third term, 60 percent of those polled said they would not vote for him; 25 percent answered in the affirmative, while 25 percent were undecided.

COURT TERM OPENS

A journal entry in the Common Pleas Court Monday officially opened the court's May term. Those present were Meeker Terwilliger, judge of the Common Pleas Court, Robert Adkins, court bailiff and deputy sheriff, representing Charles H. Radcliff, sheriff, and J. M. Borror, jury commissioner.

WIFE OF FORMER MINISTER DIES; RITES TUESDAY

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday in Columbus with cremation following for Mrs. Mary Hindman Beckes, wife of C. Boyd Beckes, of Columbus, who died Sunday after an illness of several years.

Mr. Beckes is a former Presbyterian Church pastor, having served the Circleville church some years ago.

Mrs. Beckes leaves her husband; a son, Howard, who is director of music in the Steubenville schools; a sister and two brothers.

Why milk SHOULD TASTE LIKE MILK

If you've ever had milk that tasted like cardboard, it's likely that something happened to it during pasteurization. We have made sure that can't happen in our plan by installing glass-lined pasteurizers which keep milk natural in flavor.
